Next To Nothing Into Something

A Year Filled With Changes

New things start a new year. At the beginning of this school year, new topics and new ideas promised to bring about the end of some old traditions and start new ones in Claremore. Students have shown tremendous responsibility and maturity, which the school board has finally recognized.

The old tradition of smoking outside the school has been stopped. The smoke holes have been extinguished along with smoking at all school related functions. This new policy has raised some objections about the rights of students; however, the law clearly states that no one under the age of eighteen shall have the use of a tobacco product.

With the end of a tradition almost always something new and exciting pops up. This time it was the privilege of the seniors leaving campus during lunch. This privilege, hopefully to become a tradition, was only allowed on a trial basis. So far the only complaints have been the congestion of the parking lot and a little excess litter.

A little extra surprise happened when the Claremore Zebras football team made the state championship playoffs. This was the first time in a long time that Claremore has achieved this level of success. Towards the beginning of the season, it looked like a repeat of last year's failure, but Claremore pulled through with the winning of Homecoming against the Miami Wardogs in double overtime and the slaughter of Pryor in the season's final game. This solidified Claremore's chances of reaching the state playoffs.

With a few changes, the students of Claremore High managed to make something out of this year.

FUN AND GAMES

Welcome Pups

Fun Times At Claremore High

Howdy Week, sponsored by Student Council, is the ultimate welcome to anyone new to Claremore High School. Howdy Week is aimed at the "new pups" or sophomores.

This year, Howdy Week started Tuesday off with the balloon pop. The object was to sandwich a balloon between two people and pop it. Before long, pops and screams filled the Student Center. Tug-of-War was the game for Wednesday. Once the white flag was dropped, each class — sophomores, juniors, seniors — began to tug. Thursday was the life-saver pass. Every member of a team had a toothpick in his mouth. At one end of the line was a life-saver, and when the game started the team won who could pass the life-saver down the line successfully. Friday completed Howdy Week with the orange pass. Each team had to pass the orange down the line with their chins. If the orange dropped, the team had to start over.

Shon Chester and Valerie Ruyle help the sophomore class pull for a win during the Tug-of-War.

Ouch! Jeff Lane almost pokes Laura Hailey with his toothpick during the life-saver pass.

High School Bash

Puts You On Your @#*!?

What is that Claremore High School event that everyone looks forward to a week in advance? Who's going to be there? What music is going to be played? Who are you going to glide across the floor with? What's everyone doing afterwards? These are just a few of the questions running through everyone's head before they arrive at one of our exciting dances.

After the ball games all the students race over to the school, pay their $3.00 fee and escape into the world of loud music, large groups of people, and everyone dancing wildly. These dances are steppin' up and they're beginning to put people where they belong.

Gary Cutsinger, Brandon Woldridge, David Converse and Brady Walker stand around and admire the other students dancing.

Mary Wnek and Tony Fox discuss whose feet are whose!

Gary Halstead shows us he still has school spirit.

Still Stickin'

Roger Herzler makes sure he stands out in the crowd.

Everybody gets hyped before the dance comes to an end.

Above right: Everyone stands back as the seniors show us they've still got the stuff.

Together!

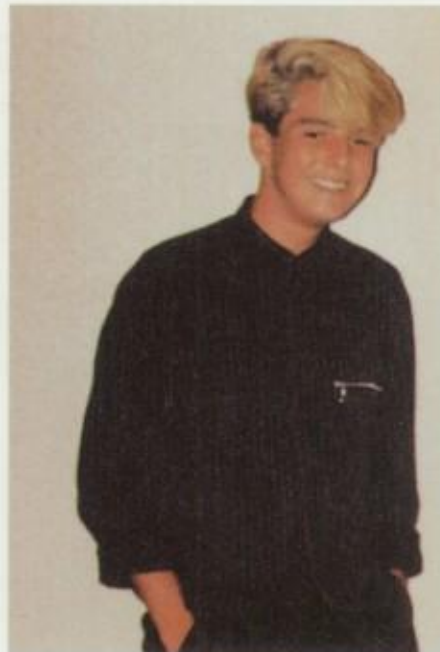

People crowd around as Susan Andrews demonstrates what she learned as a senior, how to put on shoes. Lance Holm and Dawn Edwards stand back and get a few laughs out of it.

Mrs. Buelke and CoCo Leonard watch over the students to make sure everyone's doing everything right and that nobody brought in anything they shouldn't have.

Charles Bryant says, "Guys, what did you say this was used for."

Far right: Counselors Phyllis Tanner and Darlene Buelke try to make a fashion statement with their two-in-one overalls. Right: Tate Wittenberg states, "I'm so mod."

Angi Ewell takes the Elton John look during Pommerette initiation.

Fashion: A State Of Mind

Most people believe that fashion is in materialistic objects. What people have trouble understanding is that fashion is an attitude about yourself. For example, are Spuds McKenzie t-shirts still in or will Big Bird take over? Fads and fashions are always changing, and it could kill a person trying to always be "with it."

This year people realized that there was more to clothes. Claremore High accepted it if people didn't dress the same. As a matter of fact, it was more of a contest to try to be the most original. But let's not kid one another, it helped if people wore the "big" names in fashion.

Fashion is fun. It's always changing. Looking through old fashion magazines, it's hysterical looking at what people could possibly call the "in" look. But when we look at what's in now, it's a repetition of the 40's, 50's, and the 60's. With all the fashion flashbacks, the local Goodwill could fill all your wardrobe needs through your high school years.

Tara Anderson likes to show people the fashionable way to eat one of America's most popular foods, pizza.

Some seniors join the cheerleaders in making the famous "Zebra Train" which moves so fast it is shown as a blur at our homecoming pep assembly.

The Three Stooges (Moe, Shane Hubert; Larry, Jake Redcorn; Curly, Bill Underwood) performed hysterically for all the students at a pep assembly.

Claudia Shook screams for mercy as she is being mummified by her friend Jeanna Tanner. The two pommerettes participated in the mummy wrap during Howdy Week.

School Spirit Blows Opponents Down

The Claremore Zebras showed their pride all through the school year. They stomped their feet and strutted their stuff at all of the pep assemblies and games. The spirit became contagious and proved the

"zebra train" can roll over the toughest adversaries.

At the beginning of the school year, some of the townspeople were doubtful about the football team this season, but the zebra pride took control and helped to win from one end of the state to the other. After that, the students looked forward to basketball and wrestling season. The pride was there all year long throughout every sport.

A new breed of confidence oozed out of every corner and mind in the school. No longer the underdog, Claremore was on top of the world able to withstand any challenge.

Enjoying the close physical contact, Aaron Hixson and Angie Walker participate in the lifesaver pass during Howdy Week.

Patriotism; Spirit

Spirit is an important part of any student body, but it is extremely prevalent at Claremore High School. You will see students with Zebra war paint on their faces and war ravaged clothing. There was always some activity pertaining to spirit going on such as twinkie feeds, mummy wraps, human spirals, and apple bobbing. Though many of the activities would appear childish and immature to most outsiders, they meant a lot to the students as individuals and the school as a whole. There was always one dominant fact, spirit was never lacking in the school. This year the student body turned out in an abundance for the football games. The cheering of the fans, pommerettes, and cheerleaders paid off. The team went to the football semi-finals this year.

Students and football players joined together to form the human spiral.

Victory

Although our record stood next to nothing, our superior football players led us into something. Our homecoming week started with games such as the banana split eating contest, the door decorating contest, and the class float contest. We were preparing ourselves for the wipeout against the Miami Bulldogs.

The tension was in the air throughout the week. Everyone was ready to win. Most everyone participated in the contests. The pep assembly Friday let loose lots of pent up excitement. From there, everyone went downtown to watch the parade. The seniors were happy to hear that they won the float contest for the third year.

That night the game went into double overtime with Claremore winning 7-0. Everyone celebrated by going to the homecoming/halloween dance.

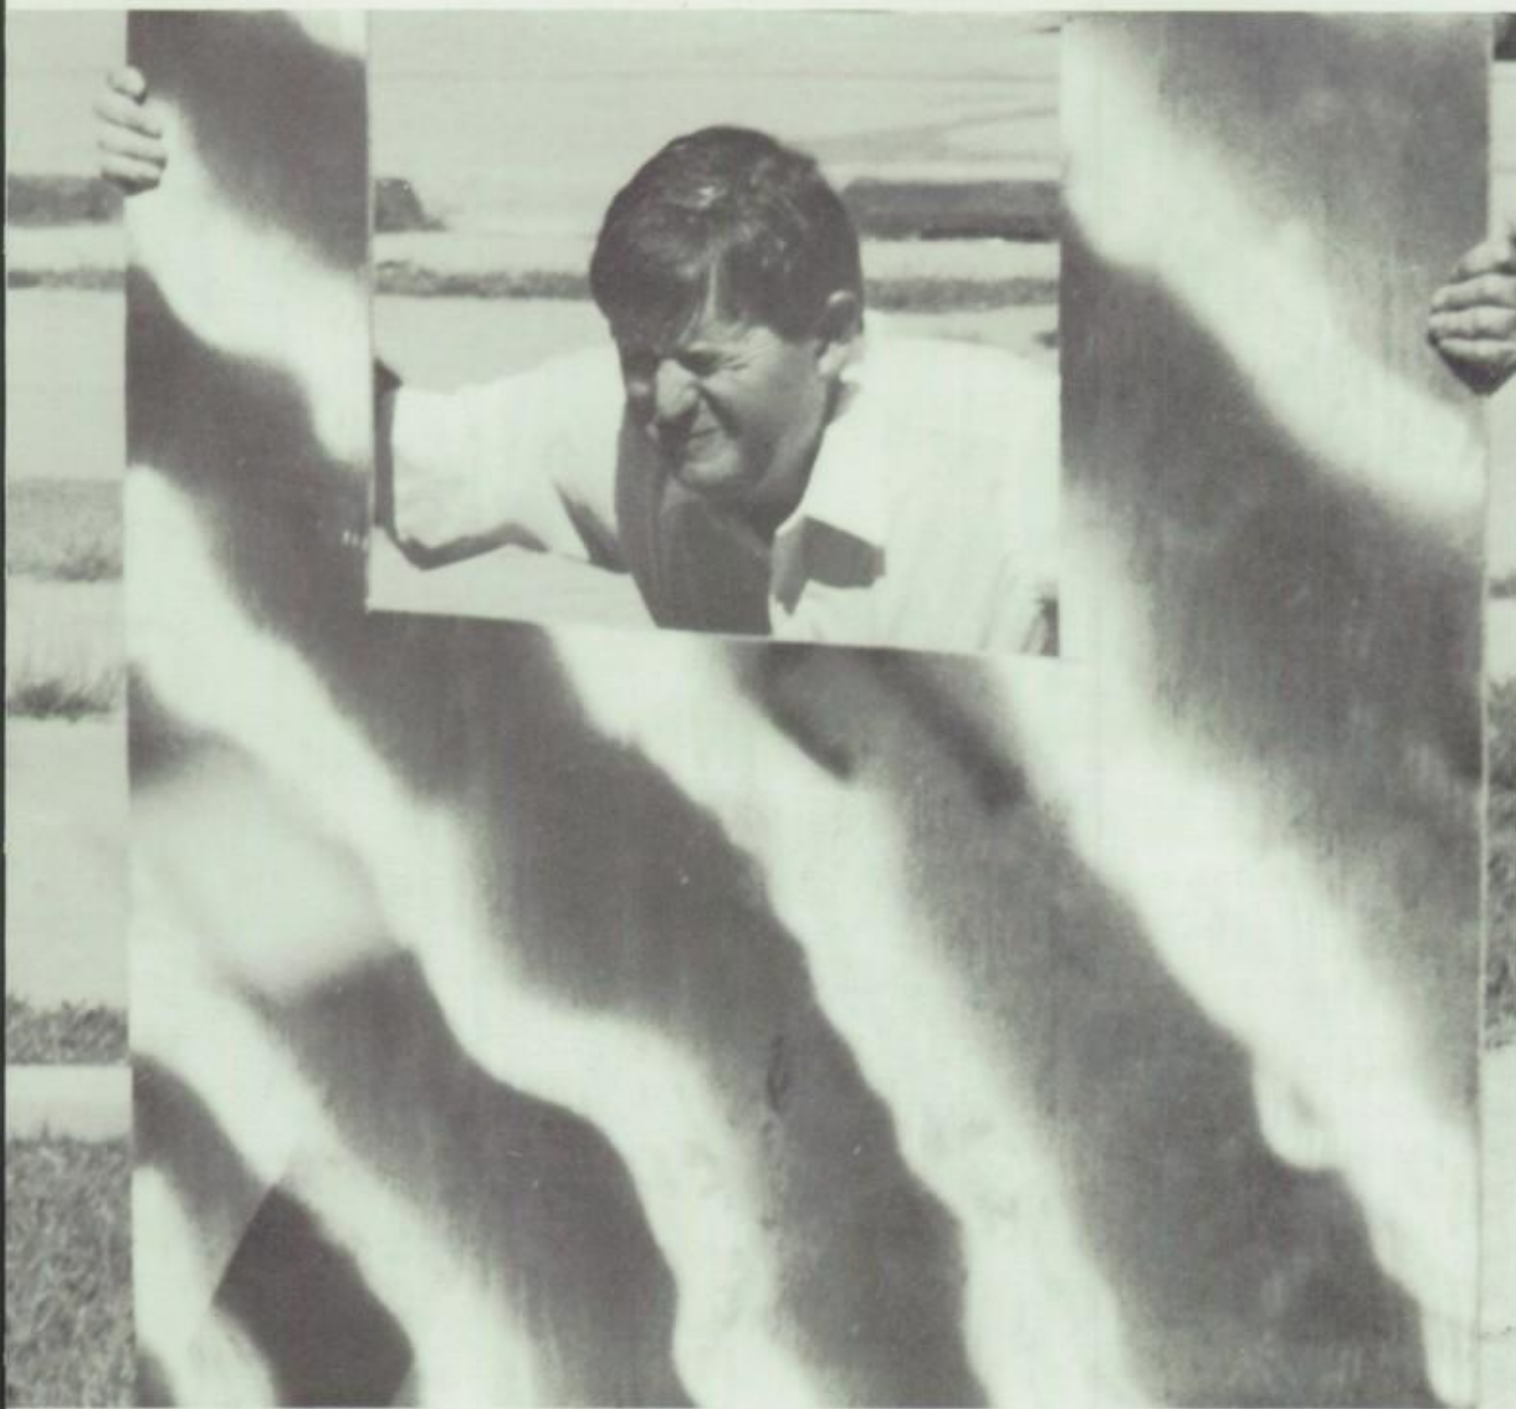

Everybody participates in the Zebra train during the homecoming pep assembly.

The great senior homecoming float won the contest hands down!

Hey, Shane Charles, was that banana split any good?

Mr. Lundy — Get ready, here comes another wet sponge.

Something is extremely funny!
Could it be Shane Charles?

The moving hula girls helped Mrs. Rostek's door win the homecoming contest.

Joyful Ending

Brad Swan, senior, demonstrates his skill in the bubble blowing contest.

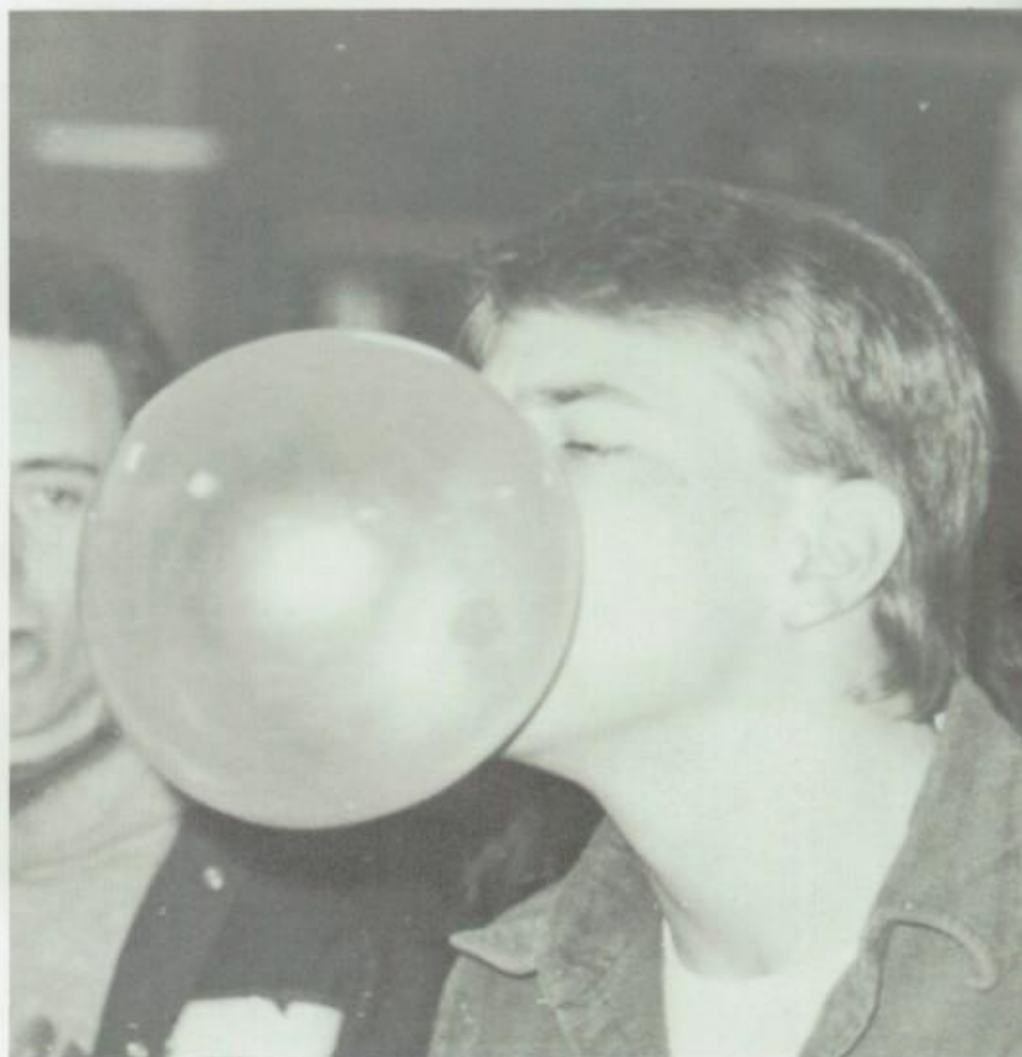

Basketball homecoming was a gala event. The week of homecoming was the last week of school before Christmas break. Everyone was tremendously excited, if not about homecoming then about vacation.

The week consisted of the usual games of the hippity hop race, big wheels race, human spiral, the bubble blowing contest. Each day had something special to wear — Tuesday: sweats, Wednesday: ties, Thursday: plaids, and Friday: red and white. All activities were sponsored by Stu-Co.

Friday was the basketball pep assembly. Lisa Salmans, queen, and her escort Slade Story were preceded into the gymnasium by her court, consisting of Linda LeGate, Dawn Dorsey, Kristi Davis, Courtney Streeter, and Marty Beaver.

That night, both the girls and the guys won their games against Pryor. The evening ended with a Christmas/Homecoming dance.

Love And Royalty

Jenni Wilde, Kacee McGee, and Kristie Dick look eagerly out at the filling gymnasium.

What better way to celebrate wrestling homecoming than to have it on the week of Valentine's Day.

Kristie Dick, queen, and her escorts Grayson Collins and Bruce Rogers had a full court to accompany them. Senior attendants were Jenni Wilde, escorted by Henry McKnight, and Kacee McGee, escorted by Brad Bump. Junior attendants were Julie Smith, escorted by Shane Ray, and Katie McGuire, escorted by Jeff Hendricks. The sophomore attendant was Missy Lindsay. Her escort was Marty Eubanks.

Stu-Co sponsored the various homecoming events that included the human spiral, hippity hop races, tug-o-war, lifesaver pass, and valentine match.

Love was in the air that Friday night as students filled the gym to see Grayson give Kristie the traditional homecoming kiss. After the matches, students walked to the student center for the Homecoming/Valentine dance.

Kristie Dick, wrestling queen, and her escort Grayson Collins, pose with the rest of the wrestling court. The human spiral was one of the lunchtime activities during the week.

The Spotlight's On You!

Talent Show 88!

This year the talent show had alot more entrees, so the show had to run into a little overtime. It started off with Jennifer Vaughn and Jay Parrack singing a duet to "Jesus Never Fails." Next came a long list of solo singers that sang religious songs: Valerie Finney, Diana Green, Mindy Nelson, David Spurlock, Brian Rownak, Kellye Tull, Tricia Brassfield, and Jennifer Vaughn.

Then there was the ROCK-N-ROLL side of the show which included Bill Underwood's lip sync of Hank Williams Jr.'s song, "Guitar Man." Brad Bump and his band played "House of the Rising Sun." Jay, Eric, Brian, and Heath showed us how the Beach Boys are in concert while Michelle Boyles and Tonya Floyd did a dance to "Push It."

Cathy Meyer showed the school her hidden talent. Her gymnastics routine was one of the best acts out there. Then the Parker brothers with their imitation of the ever so famous Beastie Boys rapped "You Have to Fight For Your Right To PARTY!"

Save the best for last was a saying that in this years talent show came true, Bobby Jasper and his band. Although most of the kids were supposed to be in their fourth hour class, they seemed to get lost in the crowd as every one rushed down to greet and listen to Bobby's great performance. Between the songs "Black Dog" and "You Shook Me All Night Long" Thad Trusler played a solo on his guitar that showed just how good the band really was.

Michelle Boyles and Tonya Floyd are showing the rest of the school how to really dance.

Internationally Select

Every year Claremore High School receives several foreign exchange students from different parts of the world. Sometimes Claremore High has one student who chooses to be a foreign exchange student. But the new students are always flooded with questions about their homeland and how they like the United States.

The Foreign Exchange Students in Claremore, hopefully, are made to feel right at home, given the fact that there is usually a cultural change. The foreign exchange students are here because they want to learn about us and most generally we ask them more questions than they ask us. One of the most popular questions we have for them is,

"how old does a person have to be in order to legally drink alcohol?" We ask what they think of our food and the foreign students say that it is okay. The foreign students were cordially welcomed into Claremore when they were taken to community night on main street on a Friday night.

Elixabete "Alexie" Etxeberria spent a year in band learning about the lifestyles of the strange and unusual.

Christian Petersen took a year of speech and drama wondering, "Where am I here?"

Poppy Riggs is a Claremore student who is planning to go to France next year to teach the French American dance and Rock n Roll.

Sayaka Yamazaki often wondered how Tina Taylor and David Ryan were going to ever survive without her.

Christian Petersen's favorite class was Pizza 101.

Some Rock-N-Roll

Some Ride The Bull

Everyone likes music whether it be rock, country, or new-wave. But no matter what your preference, you can be sure that you can find a concert that suits your needs.

Being so near to Tulsa is like living in a big city with all the comforts of a small town. Tulsa always has big-name concerts on their agenda either at the Convention Center, Brady Theater, or Oral Roberts University Mabee Center. For just a very low price, you can pick up a ticket for your favorite group and see them live. What an experience to be in the midst of throngs of people, yelling and dancing, and maybe even touching your favorite star.

The biggest groups that came our way in 1987-1988 were Motley Crue, October 9 — Randy Travis, November 12 — The Fat Boys, October 18 — Oak Ridge Boys, March 5 — and Aerosmith, February 17.

Into The Weekend!

Steve Hammer, Bill Mathews, and Gary "HOSS" Halstead obviously have what it takes to say, "We've got the look".

Terry Draper is anxiously awaiting the week-end while Jennifer King could care less.

Tara Anderson shows everyone her men; Shon Chester, Jeff Lane, and Alan Burns.

Brandon Edmonds demonstrates how he can throw a football with his eyes closed.

We all wonder what Mike Tillery and Mike Gamble will do next.

Doug Lowrey and Matt McPhe-tridge warn you of the hazards of dipping Copenhagen.

The Awaited Week-end

There were many types of people at Claremore High School, but the one thing they all had in common was that they lived for the week-end.

Most realized that without the weekends you could never make it through the school year. The most popular activity for most CHS students were those week-end parties given by those wild kids that like to show everyone a good time. Then there were those school sports and those great school dances that followed the games.

Finally, Monday rolled around, and we returned to school to those anxious teachers ready to teach the few that were ready to learn, while there were still the few thinking of the following weekend, and there were those who were still recovering from the past weekend.

We all have to admit that Claremore High students have what it takes to make a great weekend.

Claremore Inquires

Student Interests

A survey was taken to find out what the students of Claremore High were interested in. Observe the responses.

Julie Green, Poppy Riggs, and Debbie Swaim display their appreciation of the favorite grocery store, Safeway.

Pepsi was the choice of the younger generation with Dr. Pepper coming in a close second.

Earth was the most beloved planet. The more future oriented students preferred Jupiter and Venus.

Aaron Wojtalewicz and Karen Kyle visit the ever popular music department in Wal-Mart.

Trent Rogers demonstrates his passion for the favorite cereal Froot Loops.

The most popular cartoon characters were Mickey Mouse, Bugs Bunny, and Garfield. Julie Young likes them all.

Police officer Bob Jones made the most acquaintances at Claremore High.

The past time of the year was partying. Dessesra Beaushaw shows the fun that is involved in partying.

Everyone screamed for ice cream, and chocolate answered.

Coach Rushing was the coolest teacher of the year.

The parking lot was filled with the favorite car, Mustang GT.

The health freaks favorite fruit was orange. Becky Russell shows us the energy orange juice can give you.

Favorite colors were blue, red, and black.

Favorite movies were Top Gun, Platoon, and Dirty Dancing.

The favorite TV show turned out to be The Cosby Show.

People like Kara Lord and Cathy Meyer show their pride in CHS's favorite country, America.

The most populace class, English, turned out to be their favorite also.

Radio station KMOD ruled the school.

Music favorites were rock, country, and new wave.

The favorite music group Motley Crue beat out Def Leppard and Led Zeppelin.

Clubs

NEXT TO HOMEWORK

What was a better way to get away from the doldrums of school work than to enlist your services into a club that entertained your personal interests. Claremore High School offered various clubs and organizations for the different personalities of the students. Besides the language clubs, there were clubs for the athletes, the musically inclined, and the intellectuals. The newest club, being offered for the first time this year, was the Art Club.

people of the same interests get together and enjoy each other's company outside of the classroom. The best way to make friends and enjoy yourself was to join a club with the characteristics of your personal life.

Hands On Experience

A lot of hard work and a lot of fun were in order for the automotive mechanics of tomorrow. Getting their hands dirty for the love of putting together, pulling apart, and fixing cars was the adventurous spirit of these hands on technicians. Half of their days were spent in the little building by the bus barn in pursuit of the true wonder of manufacturing operating equipment in automobiles.

Eddie Tolman dives into the true art of automotive tune-up.

Good Honest Hard Work

From class studies to the anxiety of competition, the Future Farmers of America work to revive the American way of hard work and caring for the land. Not only did the students have a class where they learned about farming from a text, they had a class project of raising an animal. Competitions were held that the farmers could learn and compare other's projects. Johnna Marshall won a grand sum of money at a primary sale. The FFA also won third in state in the Farm Survey division of competition. The FFA had their annual banquet with guest speakers, slave auctions, and awards.

"Band did this to me!" exclaims Erick Rawding. This is only one of the array of faces developed while working with Mr. Brown. But Jay Parrack takes it all in stride he's, Not Going TO The Prom." That just happened to be a rap that Jay and a few other band students made up at state contest.

The Pomerettes helped the band put on a marvelous halftime show during football season.

"Touch my Bass with your hand one more time and I'll touch your face with my hand!" warns Dorothy Faas.

Even Though The Band Has Had A Depressing And Exhausting Year, They Still Found Time For Fun.

This year was a year of rebuilding for the band. It was almost half the size of last year's. The band received a two in marching contest and also at state contest. But that does not make it the worst year in band, because you have to remember that there are a few people in band who plan to have a good time no matter what the ratings are. One of them was Jay Parrack who could entertain a whole bus load of people including the driver for an hour.

The Jazz Band and Lab Band had spent all year getting ready for contest at the end of the year and also for the coronation concert in May. The Jazz Band had competed in contests throughout the year receiving a one. The Jazz Band also participated in Jazz Festivals at Eastland mall and also at the Tulsa Promenade. The Jazz Band and Lab Band competed in State contest at Edmond. Both received straight ones yet were both runners up to bands with higher points.

Even though there were a few gaps in the formation sometimes a person had to wonder where the rest of the rank was, just ask Sacheen Dawson. Erick Rawding come blow your horn. Eric played a solo for the crowd at a halftime show.

Sing Along or . . .

The choir has had a rugged year. They practiced and rehearsed all year long. The choir participated with other choirs in the area for a huge Choir Christmas Festival at Eastland Mall, where the choir performed a Christmas musical for all of the people who were doing their last minute Christmas shopping.

"Sometimes teaching these kids how to sing is like telling a blind man to read lips. They would sometimes just mess around, but when you really needed them to perform good they would perform wonderfully," commented Mr. Watson.

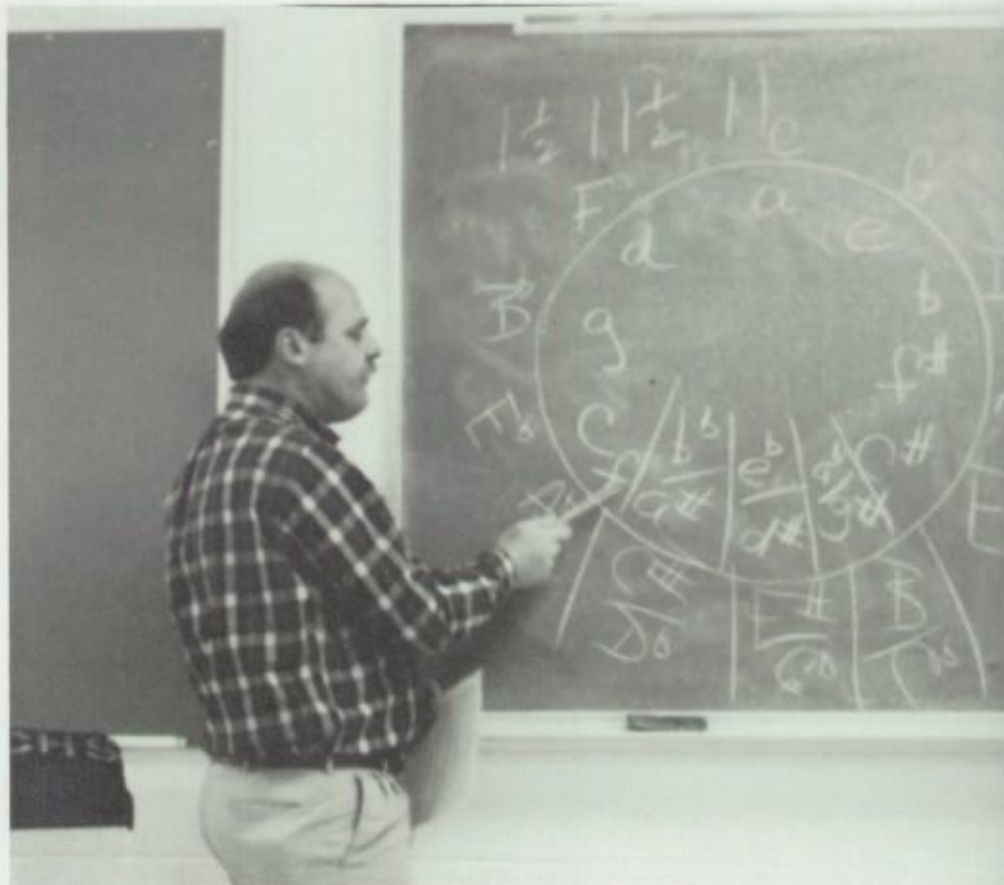

"Okay," says director Buddy Watson, "F comes after C and before A."

Brian Rownak doubtfully says, "You expect me to sing how high?"

Paint Or Draw

The wonderful imaginative class of art, where else could a person throw a piece of clay against the wall and call it "Creativity." Only in Mr. Little's art class could something like that happen.

The art class this year had many honorable students in it. Matt Robbins received several awards for his oil paintings. The same would fall true of Susie Dolak who exceeds tremendously in art. Susie and Matt were both voted as the most artistic students at Claremore High. Both are seeking possible careers in designing or art advertising.

Susie Dolak always had something to smile about, especially when people complimented her on her work.

Group Therapy

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes had a marvelous year in working together in Christ. They had devotionals, prayer time, and discussion of the works of Christ while they had snacks and refreshments.

Steve Gage, a former Claremore football star, attended one of the meetings and gave his testimonial of how God has played a big part in his football career and other things in his life. Steve encouraged the youth to keep trying hard and play a leading role in showing the Christian way of life for all to see.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes did not consist of only athletes, it was open to any student who wished to participate. Most meetings were held in the student center where there were always snacks and refreshments and good conversation.

Drive Safe With . . .

Students Against Driving Drunk or as they are now called Students Against Drinking and Drugs in order to receive better funding for activities. S.A.D.D. has sponsored some of the high school students so that they would be able to go to conventions given by the State of Oklahoma Transportation Department so that more students could understand the risk involved when a person drives while intoxicated or under the influence of drugs.

S.A.D.D. had a Prom night activity the night of the high school prom. Everyone was invited and there were plenty of food and non-alcoholic beverages for all to enjoy. The S.A.D.D. party was held at the old armory from 8:00 p.m. Saturday to 4:00 a.m. the next day. At one time there were a total of sixty to seventy people having a good time playing pool, volleyball, basketball, weightlifting, or just sitting around watching movies. S.A.D.D. also provided a "Safe Ride Home" for all students who might have felt that they were not quite sober enough to drive themselves or their dates home.

France Shares Food Experience

Wallowing in tons of tempting delights for the palate was the basic course of French club. At the beginning of the year, French club members walked into the meetings licking their lips in anticipation of the samples of the famous French cuisine.

Three people volunteered their houses for the first eating frenzy. The hors d'oeuvres were held at Claudia Shook's house. Vi-chyssoise, a cold potato soup, was featured. Some people enjoyed it; however, the common consensus wasn't too favorable. Libby Perryman allowed the main course to be held at her house. Supreme de Volaille, a garlic chicken, and Boeuf aux champignons, beef with a mushroom sauce, were probably the most enjoyed aspect of the dinner. Dessert was held at Cathy Meyer's house. The Creme Caramel was a disappointment compared to the raving success of the chocolate mousse of last year.

In the tradition of France, French club held a Mardi Gras party. Every student that took a foreign language was invited to the party. The majority of the people who came were the Spanish students. Mrs. Landers kindly offered her students 50 extra credit points if they attended the extravaganza.

Throughout the year, the members cooked their hearts out for points. At the end of the year, the points were counted. Points were treated like credit for a dinner at a French restaurant. French club was a very tasteful experience.

Angie Walker attempted to bridge the culture gap by sampling some French cuisine.

A variety of creatures showed up at Mardi Gras. Jennifer McDaniel observed the festivities on the sidelines along with Mrs. Little.

Around Christmas time, the French club cooks were required to make Buches as their biggest fund raiser. Observing the decorated cakes, Angi Ewell and Angie Walker hungered over a French sweet.

David Whitetree, Sacheen Dawson, and Christina McDonald make cracks about the French people's desire for eating cold soup.

Mathematical Computations

Choosing a club can be very essential to a person's social standing. Mr. Maggee's math club could have been described as an atmosphere of overwhelming intelligence. This was not merely a group of social misfits, but people who were truly dedicated to playing the improved, harder version of Tic-Tac-

Toe. The fury of competition mounted when the final four were selected. This year Timmy Chadha lost to Susan Baer while Judd Wheeler was wiped out by Stephen Lyle. The lord of the tournament was chosen when Stephen Lyle proved to be victorious over Susan Baer.

Scientific Intrigue

In high school, the future has always been uncertain. The more ambitious had decided early what to do with their lives. Though science club could have been a group of people who shared a common interest, it was more a gathering of people who would have liked to make their careers in the science department. A wide variety of people were invited to lecture about different fields of science. AIDS was a topic discussed by Dr. Young, Julie Young's father. Two professors from O.S.U. lectured about combining engineering with hands on experience. The always looked forward to trip to the Omniplex was scheduled so the members could have fun with what they learned in their science classes.

Dr. Young clears the myths about AIDS to the enthralled listeners of Judd Wheeler, Julie Young, Libby Perryman, Brian Roberson, and Timmy Chadha.

Head Of The Class

Being a member of the National Honor Society is a considerable achievement. Each member must meet certain qualifications and maintain them — a 3.3 grade point average and twenty service points.

The twenty service points stem from three categories: community, school, and chapter. For Community Service points, members could help with the annual blood drive, volunteer at a local nursing home, and sell tickets for the Valentine raffle. School Service points could be earned by tutoring or being a teacher's assistant. Decorating for the NHS induction or writing for the NHS paper was good for a Chapter Service point.

NHS members had a feeling of satisfaction and warmth when they helped at the nursing homes or supplied food and clothes for their Angel Tree family at Christmas time. That is what NHS is all about — scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

The Brain Kicks Into Gear

Odyssey Of The Mind

Behind closed doors a group of very dedicated, hard working individuals gather to work out problems that only geniuses were allowed to think about. These future leaders of our world racked their brains to produce a mind-boggling solution. Judges were impressed with their creativity. Three out of the four teams made either first or second place. These three teams traveled to Maryland to compete with other wizards of the world. Claremore once again prevailed to show off its intellect.

Experiencing the hands-on side of OM, Jennifer McDaniel practices her engineering skills.

Always set with the Pommerettes

The Claremore High Pommerettes jumped, screamed, and performed their way through the year. At the beginning of the year, the Pom-pon squad performed as the flag carriers in part of the band. Putting up with Mr. Brown, the squad walked away with a feeling of accomplishment.

The band was a small part in the activities of the pommerettes. Their routines were well accepted at basketball and wrestling games not to mention the pep assemblies. Summer camps were attended to sharpen their technique. Also, the pommerettes held a week long camp for future pommerettes.

The first thing to do is strike a pose. Michele Parish, Kayla Jernigan, and Claudia Shook know the right way.

Enjoying all the crowd's encouragement, Shelley Russell is in mid-stride at a pep assembly.

Spanish Fun

Spanish Club members had a lot of fun times to remember. The most memorable time being driving to the Mexi-Cali Border Cafe in Tulsa and Ms. Lollman forgetting to turn on her headlights. While everyone passed her on the highway trying to motion to her to turn her lights on, she thought they were waving and just waved back. Luckily, she got to Tulsa in one piece.

Spanish parties ranged from going to Mexican restaurants to having a party at Jamye Buelke's house.

Speech And Drama

A Different Day A Different Way!

Bill Underwood and Patricia Pabst look in amazement as they watch the other students perform their chosen topics.

Shawn Hensley performs his interpretation of some of the faculty while Kim Grizzle demonstrates the other point of view.

The speech and drama class is something everyone needs to take once in their life, if not for the knowledge, for the experience. It teaches you how to stand up and talk in front of an audience or just in front of your class. It also teaches ways to act out how you feel with real expression and of course how to take a little embarrassment once in a while. This year the speech and drama class won alot of awards in drama, speeches or just writing.

Gwen King stood up in front of the class and showed them how she drove her car and the expression on her face reveals it all.

On A Tidal Wave

Of Spirit And Emotions

The Student Council had a fierce time trying to keep the student body full of school spirit, because sometimes the student body becomes bored, and needs activities to keep their interest in school.

So student council came up with some ways to keep the students interest. A short list of these ways were: twinkie feeds, hippity hop races, human spirals, mummy wraps, wrestling, and foos-

If by chance you have forgotten about how some of these events work, read carefully. Twinkie feeds consist of three things, two people and a box of twinkies. The object is for one person to shove as many twinkies as possible into the second person's mouth within a certain period of time. Have you ever been all wrapped up in toilet paper, well that is what a mummy wrap is. A hippity hop race consist of a line of people bouncing on top of this huge rubber ball up and down the student center or the gym floor. Remember that this is not only for students, but it is also good for prestigious members of the faculty including the best hippity hop racer in the world, Principal Cleve "The Hopper" Kin-near.

Tammi Pinion should be given an award in "Lighting and Electricity" for her expertise in lighting up the Christmas Tree.

Who else but Laura Hailey, Kristi Poyer, Brad Swan, Amy Smith, Shawanna Sexton, Kari Hendricks, and Jeff Lane to spice up a parade with their presence. The High School Christmas Tree was gracefully decorated by members of the student council. And as you can clearly see, Sara Kachantones, Brooke Richardson, and Kim Schorer could always find time to take a break.

Tatler

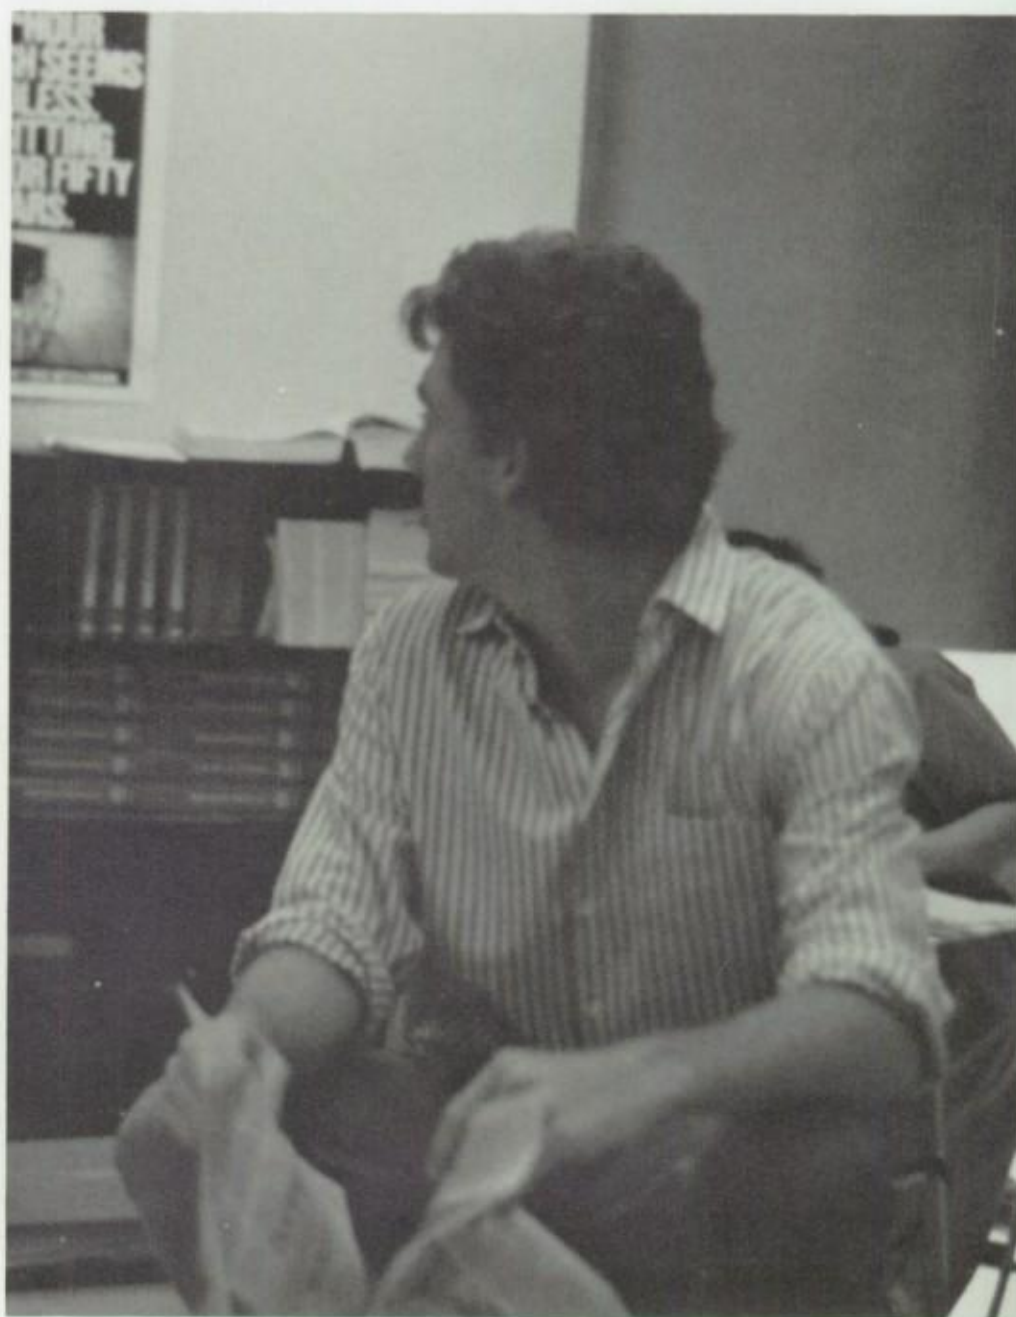

Hot Off The Press

The Tatler was our school newspaper that was issued every month to the students and faculty of our school.

The advisor of the Tatler was Mrs. Brankel. She coached the staff along to make sure the deadlines were met and to make sure that nothing inappropriate was written and put into the paper.

The Tatler staff worked long, hard hours putting together various stories to show us just exactly what was going on in our school and in our society.

Northeast Area Vo-Tech

Northeast area Vo-Tech offered a variety of programs which lead to salable skills in the world of work. The students grew in their ability to become more productive citizens through gainful employment. The school was well equipped to respond to the majority of the needs of its students. The goal of the school was to provide the finest possible programs in vocational and technical education for the patrons of the district.

The students that attended Claremore High School attended the South Campus located on Highway 20 west of Pryor. Some students decided to attend the Marketing Education Program offered in the Claremore downtown business district.

Tammy Cherry and Sandra Kincaide are practicing display skills in their Marketing Education class.

Pam Brittain and John Partenzana are demonstrating the importance of friendly customer service.

Jerry Gosnell is using some of the latest equipment that the students learn to operate when they attend Vo-tech.

Strange And Wonderous World Of Yearbook

A Side Of Life Never Fathomed Before

The year begins early for the "unrecognized" yearbook class. Before school officially opens, the hazy eyed students dragged themselves to begin sluggishly planning the new yearbook. Decisions are made and finalized. Trips are scheduled to various colleges to sharpen their creative talents.

When the student body infiltrates the school, Yearbook is there recording every moment. They're sneaking around just waiting for you to do something stupid and to preserve that in time.

Deadlines pick up speed. Finish one deadline and up pops another. It's one long do or die trip. No rest or Miss Hendricks will be breathing down their necks practicing one of her infamous guilt trips. Tensions rise, and they're at each other throats.

In the end, the class will keep the memories of hardships and frustrations in publishing a best-selling book. They made the book in all fairness and are proud of their work.

Quiet, timid Dorothy Stout tediously finishes designing her layout.

Deep in thought, Tammy Vanover dwells over a burst of creative insight.

SENIORS

NEXT TO NOTHING

For years the student body at Claremore High School tried to obtain the privilege of OPEN CAMPUS. Well, the class of 1988 accomplished this great task. Of course, it was only on a trial basis. Also, everyone that wished to participate had to keep up their grade point average. Hopefully, a new tradition was started so that the Seniors to come can appreciate this also.

At the beginning of the school year, the Seniors had some decisions to make. They had to decide whether or not they wanted their pictures in color. Finally, after many days of debating the topic, they decided for the color pictures. After the sales of candy and $4.00 donations from participating classmates they managed to raise enough money.

This class has gained what a lot of other classes have only dreamed of doing. They will always be remembered as second to no other class.

Thbbfff!

Imagine getting up at 7:00 a.m. and being at the gym by 7:30. Then practicing basketball until 9:10 and only having ten minutes to get ready for class. That's exactly what Tina Riddles said in the locker room after one of these practices.

Being successful takes more than just good grades. It takes personality and charisma, and that was just what our 1988 Most Likely to Succeed seniors had.

Stephen Lyle and Susan Baer were two very ambitious young people.

Stephen was a member of the National Honor Society, Math Club, and Science Club. He played varsity soccer and received the Optimist Award for Student Appreciation Week. Stephen achieved five Balfour awards during high school — geometry, French, computer programming, algebra, and chemistry.

Stephen also achieved an almost perfect score on his ACT with a 30. He plans on attending Carnegie Mellon in Pittsburg or Purdue in Indiana majoring in engineering.

Susan was a member of NHS and the president of the Math and Science Clubs. She received a C-award in history, and was a regional champion in Speech and Drama. Susan was accredited with a 3.6 grade point average and she said she plans on attending Boston University or St. Johns in Maryland. She wants to major in law or medicine.

Boo!

Winning the football game against Tulsa McLain gave these seniors something to party. They did so by dressing up for the halloween dance. Dressed for fun are Jamye Buelke, Michelle Forslund, Tara Anderson, Tammy Bisceglia, and Tina Riddles. No doubt they had fun at the dance where videos were shown of our own CHS student body.

Most people wouldn't want to spend five hours a day working out. But Linda LeGate and Mike Murray did just that. And all of their sweating and hard work paid off for them. Not only were they our 1988 Most Athletic seniors, but they were also looked at by various colleges.

Mike participated in football, baseball, and weightlifting. He broke a school record as a junior with 157 tackles in football. Mike had NEO, TU, and the Army and Airforce look at tapes of his football playing. He is undecided right now about where he wants to go to college, but he said he wanted a football scholarship and wanted to major in Pre-Law. He was also voted senior class president and All-County football player.

Linda participated in basketball and track. She had OSU scouts looking at her. That is where she is planning on going to college. As a junior, Linda broke a school record in basketball with 49 points in a game against Tahlequah. Linda played basketball for ten years and spent most of her summers in basketball camps. She said she was inspired by her older sister Jane to play basketball. Linda was also in FCA and Student Council.

What!

Sayaka Yamazaki, a Foreign Exchange Student from Japan, always wondered about American school work; now she knows.

Being attractive helps a lot when you need something. Not only for manipulating your parents and getting many dates, but also for being voted CHS 1988 Most Attractive Seniors. This years honors went to Amy Smith and Adam Johnson.

Adam being the rugged type that he was, participated in football for three years and weightlifting for two years. Adam was also chosen for the football royalty for three years straight. He was a member of FCA (Fellowship of Christian Athletes), NHS (National Honor Society), and

Student Council.

Amy accomplished a lot in her life. Having a stroke as a baby, Amy had various complications with her leg, but that didn't stop her from getting what she wanted. She was in Student Council since the Ninth Grade and was Student Council President her senior year. Amy was also Treasurer of FCA.

Both Amy and Adam added friendliness and charisma to their personalities which made them attractive on the inside as well.

Hello

Creativity is probably the thing most craved at our school. Every year the seniors choose a male and a female to represent their class in creativity. These people are usually born with the talent or have developed it since early childhood. However it started, Matt Robbins and Susie Dolak have sharpened their talent into an inspiration for all.

Beginning with the fascination of little creatures, Matt has been successful with art since early childhood. With pens, pencils, or anything handy, he began to experiment with his uncanny ability. At first, the picture is distorted. Then Matt sharpens the creation to a work of art.

At the age of eight, Susie Dolak discovered her talent in art and naturally pursued it. As a sophomore, Susie entered a national contest. AAA National Safety Poster contest awarded her with one hundred dollars. She placed second in the nation.

Observing their creations, it is little surprise that they received this title, CHS 1988 Most Artistic. Both are talented beyond belief.

Seniors Martha Forslund, Tammy Bisceglia, Natasha Bartels, and Curt Roseman, poked kleenex into the float for homecoming. The seniors won the float competition between the classes winning forty dollars. Their class, the class of 1988, won the float competition all three years.

The CHS 1988 Friendliest were Kristi Poyer and Chris Chomosh. Kristi and Chris both found cordiality an inborn personality trait. Being comrades to others came naturally to both.

Kristi's fellowship was seen through her work and efforts in several school organizations. Her religious beliefs assisted her as president of Fellowship of Christian Athletes and chaplain of Student Council. She was also secretary of Students Against Driving Drunk and a member of the Science Club, National Honor Society and the Spanish Club. Kristi's interests also included playing goalie for the soccer team and being co-editor of the Tatler. Her junior year she was awarded the Zebra spirit award on the soccer team and was an archbearer at the graduation ceremonies. After graduation Kristi would like to attend either OU or OBU and major in Pre-med or Physical Therapy.

Chris' efforts to seek and destroy enemies were evident in his involvement in several school organizations. His friendships were as varied as much as his diversity in clubs. Chris was a member of Student Council, Spanish Club, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Weightlifting and the Chess Club. Only because of his "friendly" nature did he get off the hook in his algebra class after smashing his teacher's yardstick across a desk. After graduating Chris hopes to enter the military.

Fer Sure!

Senior Lori Strope exhibits her usual disgust with algebra. "When will I ever use this factoring anyway," she announced.

Was it the cold winter and telling jokes by the fireplace or the red hair? Neither, just Autumn Lisko chosen by her peers Class Clown of 88. Autumn wasn't really into clubs and organizations although she was a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Future Business Leaders of America, but the Claremore chapter of the latter dispersed her senior year, too much buffooning? She did however enjoy shopping - another Mallory Keeton - or just goofing around with her friends. After graduation Autumn plans on attending Washington University in Virginia and majoring in advertising.

Heath Parker on the other hand was a jock. Okay, maybe he wasn't a big powerful jock that got knocked around each week on the football team, but he was instrumental in track and cross country. Instrumental that is, with the morale of the team. Being the sportsman that he was, one of Heath's favorite past times was as an avid hockey player. Not in the usual sense however. Cafeteria hockey was his game. No more explanation on that one. Heath had a serious side to him too. After graduation he plans on being a hospital corp man in the US Navy.

Why?

These seniors are just two who were enjoying the great summer weather while it lasted and, of course, one of our baseball games. Rhonda Paris and Michelle Forslund were having a nice chat, but were wondering why they're the only ones there.

For the last few years, the students have chosen band or choir members to be "Most Musically Inclined", but this year they thought of two people that were not in band or choir. Brad Bump and Memory Smith by far deserved this award.

for audiences. Memory really didn't like to play any instruments; she preferred the vocal part more. Brad, on the other hand, liked the instrumental part better. He is a wizard with the guitar, and plays with his own band in Claremore.

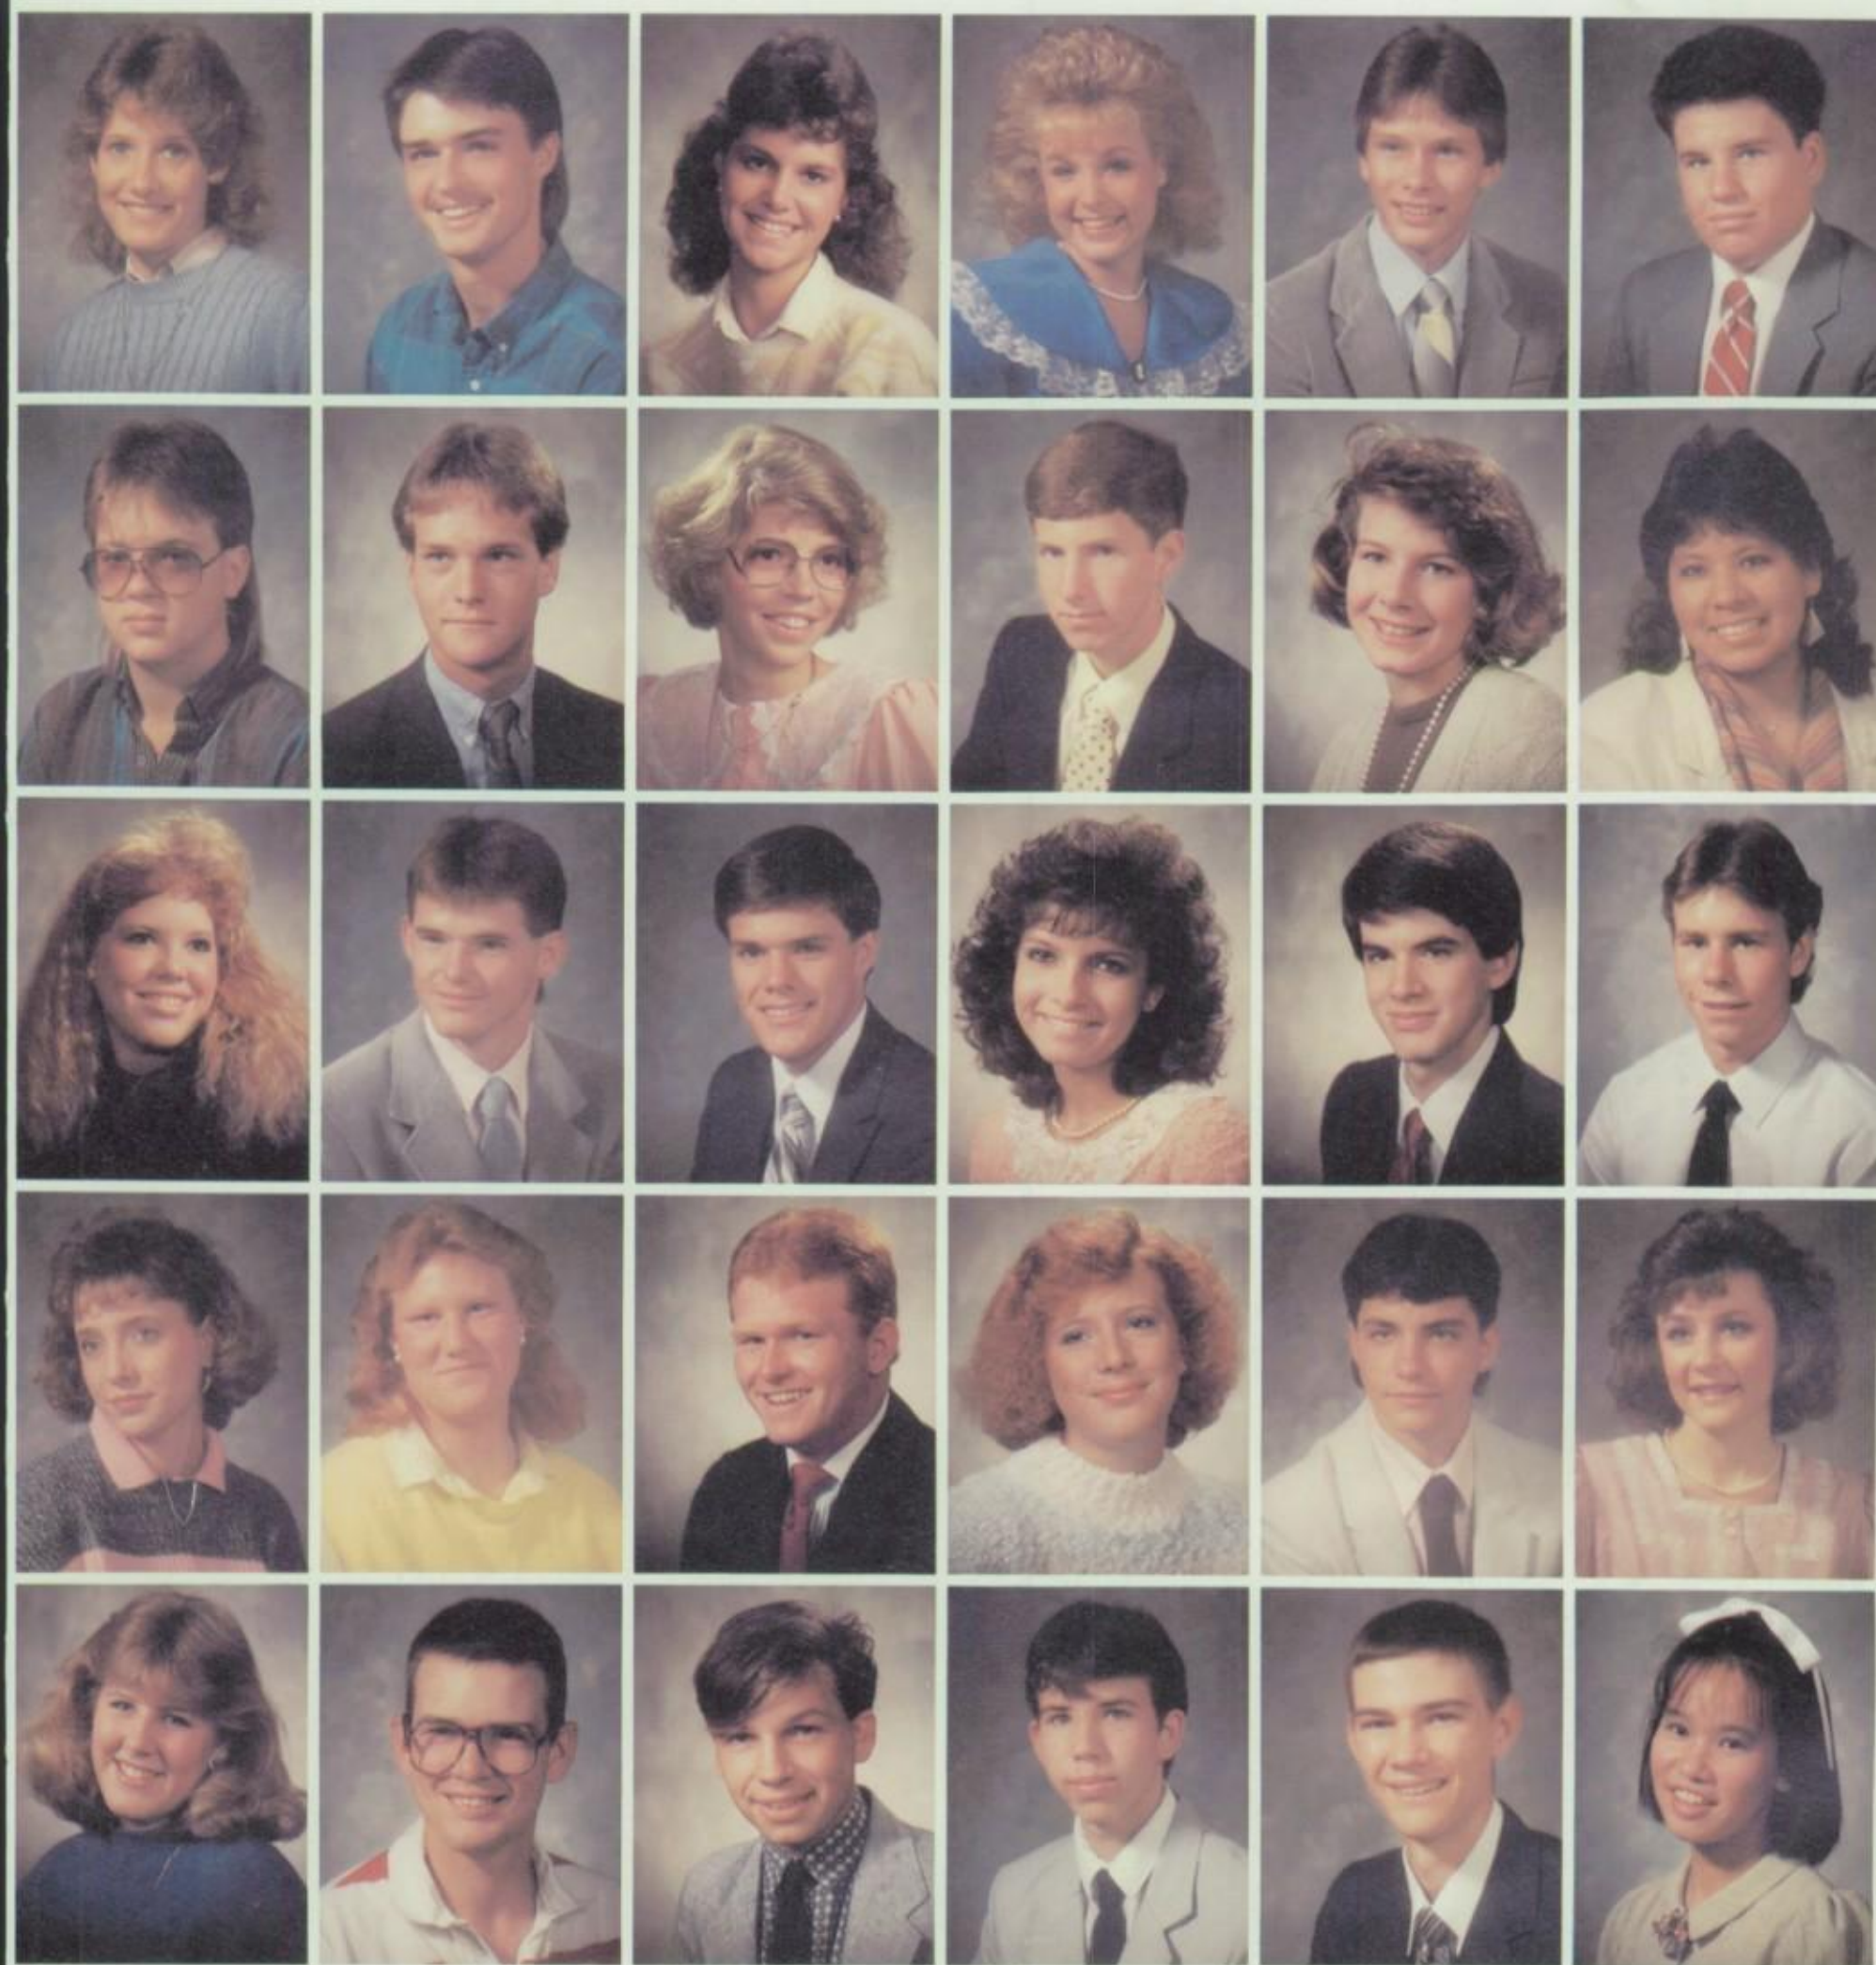

Memory travels in a band called the Ozark Country Express. They traveled to places like Iowa, Texas, Missouri, and New Mexico to perform

These two people are very talented. Their continued dedication will help them achieve their goals.

NEXT TO SENIORS

The junior class plays a big part in the high school; yet, sometimes they are overlooked because of the attention towards the sophomores. Everyone knows and loves to make fun of the "puppies", and then there are those "big" seniors that would like everyone to think that they rule the school; but before the year is over the seniors realize that without the juniors there would be no prom! So the next time you see a junior thank them and remember:

What would it be like if we didn't know,
The partying juniors, the kids we love so,

The one's that do their work and do not complain, for good grades are what they will gain.

What would people do if there were juniors no more,
CHS would definitely be a bore,

For without a junior to help out a sophomore, the seniors would take over and they would all be ignored.

So when the seniors are gone and there's an empty space, remember the juniors that will fill their place!

INTO JUNIORS

In Claremore High School, every class has its certain groups and certain friends. Every junior in CHS knows that Jennifer King, Julie Smith, and Teresa Slane have been friends for many years. Some can remember in junior high that whenever you wanted to find one of these girls, you would usually end up with all three of them. Here we are in high school, and you can still find them together.

All three girls are active in cheerleading and have enjoyed the sport for three years. Like most friends in school, Jennifer, Julie, and Teresa have been through a lot together and definitely will encounter more next year.

Sara Parks has often been amazed at how one teacher can get off of the subject so many times in one hour, as is usually the case in Mr. Fox's Honors American History class.

Sara is very proud of her position on the basketball team. She has spent two weeks the past summer learning how to treat muscle injuries which could be inflicted while playing basketball. In all of this she has earned the title of Team Trainer.

Sara is also the Treasurer of the Students Against Drunk Drivers organization. She says she does it for the money, even though she does not get to keep it. She is a member of S.A.D.D. because she believes that many lives can be saved if there were no drunk drivers on public roads.

One of the favorite organizations that Sara belongs to is her youth organization at church. Sara is one of the leaders in her youth group because as she says, "I feel that all of the problems that teenagers face can easily be solved if we just put faith in the Lord, and I just want to share what I have with others."

Christie Sumter is working very hard on Algebra, even though it's not her favorite subject, but she says it can be fun at times.

Although Algebra is not her favorite class, she says Accounting is. She says Mrs. Lingenfelter is a fun teacher and very helpful. Sometimes Christie and a couple of her friends get called down for being too noisy. Accounting is what Christie would like to major in at college. Even though she does not know where she wants to go, she plans on having fun.

Christie is a guard on the basketball team. She enjoys playing basketball because she says that it helps her get ready for the day since it is her first class. "I also get to be with my friends, and we like to have as much fun as we can. Basketball seems to be the best way. Coach Pierce is a great coach, and he is very supportive while we are playing or in anything we do."

As the teacher drrolls on and on, Julie Young and Sheila Crutchfield find other things to amuse themselves.

Teachers tend to take great satisfaction in making interesting lectures for their students. Regardless of their efforts, students would rather listen to one another talk. Getting caught by the teachers is like being penalized in a game. The stricter the teacher, the greater the challenge becomes.

In total disbelief, Missy Potter endures the teacher's nostalgic anecdote. In the midst of the student center, Kevin Dover tells about his infinite wisdom.

After an hour of silence, Libby Perryman and Courtney Streeter rush to tell their side of the story in less than five minutes.

With meek modesty, Kayla Chriswell smiles with the knowledge of midnight meetings in the park.

Always the opinionated Jake Redcorn reaches out to educate the undecided.

NEXT TO JUNIORS

For some students the sophomore year is perhaps the most enjoyable of all. Even though they are considered puppies by upper classmen, the teasing gradually eases off, and they are just other students.

During the first week of school, dog biscuits were hung around their necks. It was only for the day, and most people saw the humor in it. The sophomores had many new experiences this year such as the school dances. Most could not resist the temptation the music put forth. But of all other things, the opportunity to make new friends was a major goal.

After going through a year of traditional change, one could say that it is very likely this years' sophomores will be well prepared to be tomorrows' juniors.

INTO SOPHOMORES

Chad Martindale turns intense concentration toward his foosball game. Foosball is very popular before school and during the lunch hours.

Between some players, it is just friendly rivalry; among others, it is an ongoing competition to see who is the foosball king of CHS.

Wynona (Mint) Saunders. A lot of people don't know her, but those who do call her Mint. Because of a friend from her church Wynona received her nickname. This friend gave Wynona the nickname through the famous word association game. Wynona reminded this friend of Nona, (a nickname in itself). Nona reminded her of no. No reminded her of wrong, wrong reminded her of right. Right reminded her of turn, turn reminded her of signal, signal reminded her of mouthwash, and mouthwash reminded her of mint. So many of Wynona's friends call her Mint as a joke or just to remind her of her friend at church.

Band member Dana Blacklock seeks fame. Having fun with friends is always a priority. School seems secondary to going out and having a good time. Everyone can have the option of doing the many things in Claremore, or they can skip to Tulsa. In Claremore, the options are going to a friend's house hoping for a party, a drive through town, or creating mischief for the local law enforcement. On the other hand, Tulsa offers the local teen clubs, new people, or maybe a movie. All of these things we look forward to, but only with our friends.

Sean Layton has a determined expression upon his face showing his intense interest in the subject matter being discussed. If you looked in other sophomore classes it would not be unusual to see many other students doing the same. Interest and concentration are two very important parts in the process of learning. For the students who were really into expanding their knowledge there were the Math, Science, Spanish, and French Clubs.

FACULTY

NEXT TO LIFE

Being a teacher is almost like giving up your life. Deciding to take that plunge means dedicating your time, even your spare time, to your classes and kids.

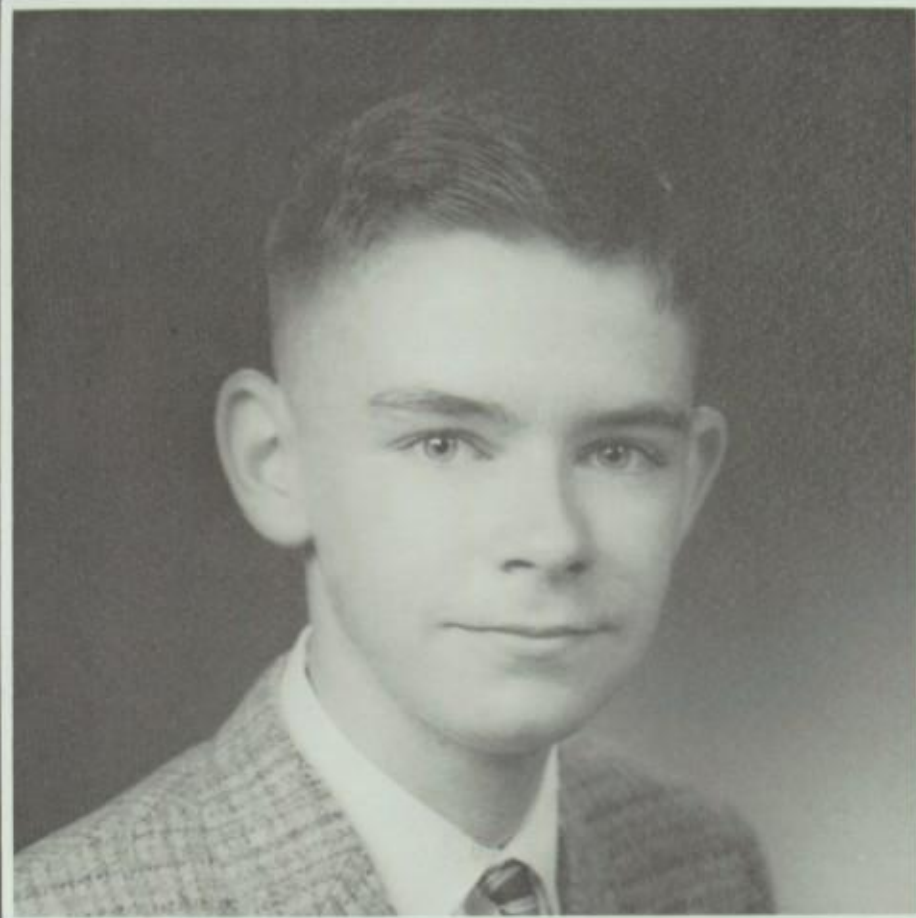

The faculty here at Claremore does just that. There is not one teacher or teenage advisor who wouldn't help one of the students when they need it.

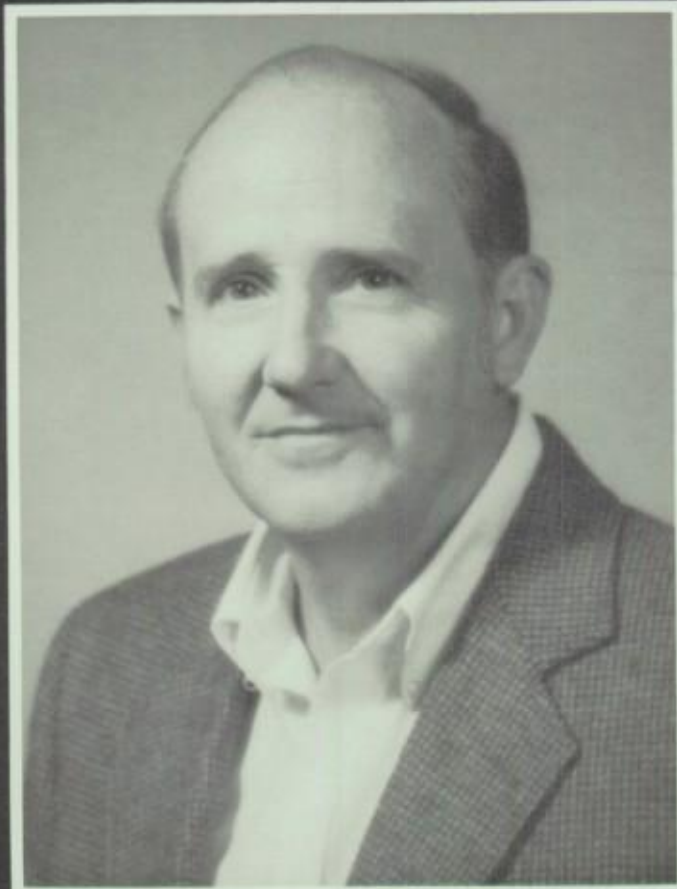

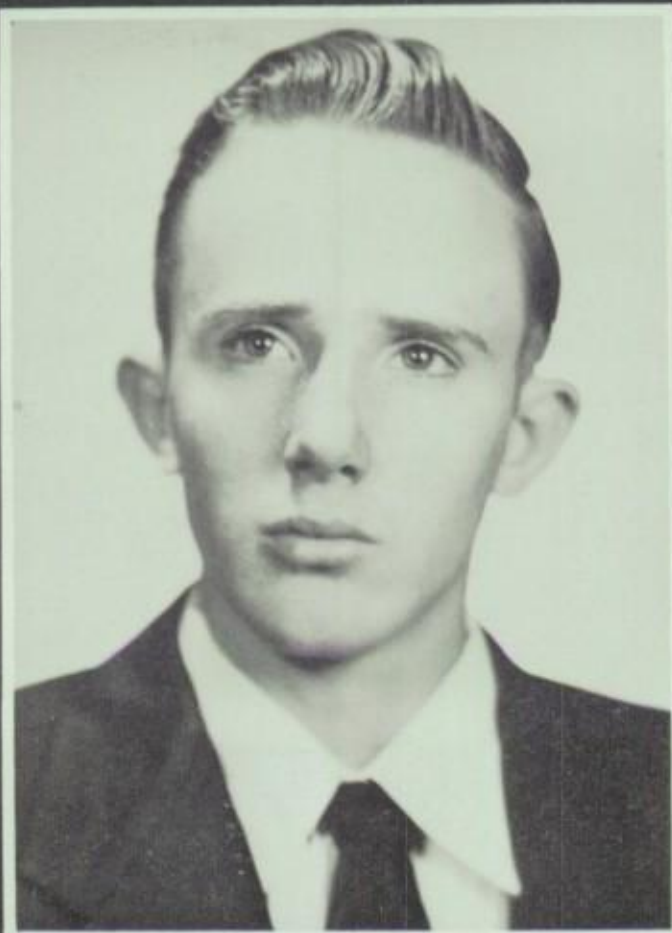

The faculty members are not just navigators, but friends. Most students have a favorite teacher that they like to communicate with more than others, and that teacher is someone to look up to.

Maybe teachers don't realize what they are getting themselves into when they go to college to become teachers, but once they are there they learn to love it.

Some people who gave up their life for teaching are Chet "the Jet" Magee, Susan Raasch, and Don Fox.

INTO TEACHING

“Enter”

Mr. Hixson, the computer teacher, sits in his little cubby hole with Lavonne Stiger, a junior. He is explaining for the 20th time, “Lavonne, if you want anything to work on the computer then you must first turn it on. Then for it to except any data, you have to press enter.”

Coach Pierce sits around with some other teachers showing them how a real man eats.

Next To SWEAT

Dedication, practice, and a lot of sweat come to mean involvement in athletics. Every willing sacrifice gives up a part of his life to become a member of the team. Before the competition aspect begins, players are placed on diets and begin training for the muscle and mental coordination demanded from champions. Hours of practice and concentration slip away unnoticed with the hope and belief in winning. Then thoughts of the actual game are pushed to top priority. Eager with anticipation, the anxiety-ridden players wait for the coaches word on who is to play. In the end, pride and satisfaction knowing that the ultimate peak in oneness of mind and body has brought the winning cup to Claremore High School.

Sliding In To Another Baseball Season

The baseball team did rather well this year. They went to state and were defeated by only one by MWC Albert. They beat Nowata and Catoosa in the Claremore tournament, Bixby JV in the Bixby tournament, and Edison, Pryor and Kelley in the 4A regional tournament. During regionals, Terry Draper scored three times to give him a school record 39 for the season. Claremore ended up with a .419 team average.

Shortlived Fantasy

This year came to a sudden and sad stop for the Claremore Lady Zebras. Unfortunately, they did not advance to the state finals as they had hoped.

The Lady Zeebs did have a winning year though with fourteen wins and nine losses.

The girls continued to stay in shape after last year. They went to the gym during the summer every night for two, three, sometimes four hours. They also attended a week-long basketball camp in Miami at NEO. By the time basketball season rolled around, they were ready to play ball.

The offense was led by Linda LeGate and Dawn Dorsey; the defense was directed by Rhonda Paris, Lisa Salmans, and Donna Lee.

The Lady Reds went into regionals with a winning attitude, but it all ended there with a loss to Miami.

The Lady Zebras held a car wash to raise money for their organization. Michelle Forslund and Lisa Salmans, seniors, looked like they were totally enjoying themselves.

Although Lisa Salmans was sometimes called Lil' Lees, she didn't have any trouble knocking the opponent down.

Donna Lee, senior, uses her powerful legs to jump and block a shot.

The Claremore Zebra Basketball Team made each Claremore citizen proud. These boys held the four D's needed for such a sport — Desire, Determination, Dedication, and Discipline.

Each member of the team came back from last year with the desire to play the best that he could. The seniors this year set a good example for rest of the team to follow.

The Zebras had the determination and dedication to their sport to come to practices every day, practice hard for about three or four hours, and learn all the plays of their defense and offense.

The discipline it takes to play a sport is extremely overruling. The question always arises when you are about to do your tenth sprint — Why am I here? Each player had the self-assertion to come to practice with an open mind and a lot of strength.

The four D's — Desire, Determination, Dedication and Discipline — these are what gave the Claremore Zebras a winning year.

Cheerleaders

The Claremore High School Cheerleaders kicked off the school year with great pep assemblies. The cheerleaders put on performances with high jumping and high kicking routines. They riled up school spirit at football and basketball games and wrestling matches. At all of these, they led the student body showing who is the best.

The cheerleaders performed alongside of the pommerettes at football games in welcoming the football team and expressing school spirit on the field.

The cheerleaders went to a camp at the University of Oklahoma for a week. They competed and performed with other cheerleading squads across Oklahoma.

For their dedication to their work and to their school, we compliment them on a job well done.

After it is all said and done, Tracey Nunley knows that WE ARE #1.

CROSS COUNTRY

Sprints Into Action

Imagine running across open fields and through dense woods. That is what this years cross country team did. Among other things, they attended three major meets and placed well in each.

They attended the Metro

Lakes Conference Meet and left with the boys team as the runners up. George Reynolds was the Conference Champion, and Marc Sallee was the runner up. At the East Regional Meet, George Reynolds finished fourth, and Sabrina Budde finished eighth. Once again, the boys team was runner up. When the team attended the State Meet, the boys team placed fifth. George Reynolds came in tenth for All-State.

It was not only the first game of the season, but it was also the first home game of the season. Owasso felt sure of a victory only because of previous confrontations. But it wasn't so easy this time. They had to fight tooth and nail for three full quarters before finally pulling ahead in the final two minutes.

This was the first spark to the fire, the second big spark came after the Cowardly Catoosa Indians wrote graffiti all over our stadium the night before the game. It was very satisfying to see the Zebras trample the Indians. But we can not forget the statement made by one rival newspaper saying, "Claremore can only beat sixth grade girls."

All of these little things add up to one big thing, our closest shot at the State Championship in a very long time. Gratifying enough we were regional champions, and are very likely to take another shot at State next year. In all of this the people of Claremore thank Coach Ballard and his outstanding staff for the accomplishments made in the past year.

Lady Zeebs Place Second In State

The 1988 girl's golf season was a series of hard-fought victories. Not only did the girls go to the state championships as a team this year and place second, but two of the team members placed in the top ten.

Martha Forslund, who didn't make the cut-off last year due to illness, shot 165 to place seventh at the state tournament held at the Lake Hefner Park South Course in Oklahoma City. Kristie Dick, at 169, placed eighth after completing the two-day championships with a low 76.

But, having two top ten golfers wasn't the only thing to be proud of. Michelle Forslund and Laura Hailey both shot career bests. Michelle had a final round 87, and Laura broke under 100 with 98. Michelle finished at 179, Laura at 199, and Teresa Ping at 206.

The girls total team score, 708, brought them home with the runner-up trophy. Although their rival, Jenks out-scored the Lady Red, the girls played their best and made their alma mater proud.

Boys End Year With Bright Future

The 1988 boy's golf team went to state with the hopes of coming back as successful as the girls. Unfortunately, they got off to a bad start and couldn't make a comeback in the second-day finals. The guys placed fifth in the 4-A state championship with a team score of 960.

The team's best scorer was freshman Brent Chambers who placed fifteenth with a score of 235. Seniors Tony Bishop and Shawn Watkins shot 240 and 246, respectively. Juniors Brady Walker and Jason Sims shot 241 and 257, respectively.

The guys came back disappointed, but next year holds a promising future with the return of Brent and Jason.

After compiling a fantastic 8 and 3 record, the boys soccer team failed to gain a berth in the regionals. The three losses, each by only one point, caused the Zebra dilemma.

Despite the record of 5 and 5, the girls' soccer team, who was only in its second year of existence, made a dramatic rise into the ranks of top class soccer by gaining a berth in the regionals. The moment was short lived however as Sand Springs blanked the Claremore Lady Zebras by the score of 6 to 0.

Another bright spot for the team was the fact that two foreign exchange students, Elixabete Etxeberria and Sayaka Yamazaki, were able to join the ranks. The team was full of sophomores and juniors ready to fight even harder next year.

Girls End Year 12-8

The 1987-88 Claremore girls softball team had a big obstacle to overcome. After graduating five of the last year's starting seniors, they were predicted to have a losing year. But these girls had a lot of strength and stability to put forth.

Losing their first game didn't bring the girls down; they just put their best into the next game. Being out on the practice field every afternoon in the blistering sun finally paid off for the red and white. Our softball team earned themselves a winning year: 12 wins, 8 losses.

After the pressure of league play ended, the girls played the faculty of CHS. Of course, there is no need to say who won, is there?

Only One Point From The Big Times!

Not once, but twice Claremore was beaten by Duncan in the state playoffs this year.

First came football then tennis. In both of the games Duncan beat us by one point. We came very close to winning in both games and we can honestly say that they had to work for that extra point. With a little more practice and some spunk they will wish they had never encountered Claremore High School.

To get to state the tennis players practiced last hour and after school during the second semester. They have earned alot of respect and next year will be the state champions.

On a windy day in Oklahoma City, the girls tennis team met up with the biggest challenge they have faced all year. They left Claremore Sunday evening in Mrs. Heidlage's station wagon to arrive that night at the Holidome. Monday morning they arrived at the tennis courts rearing to go and by the end of the day all six girls had won the eliminations. They would return Tuesday to see who would win state. On Tuesday the games began with a lot of hope. They had to win two out of four of the games. Wendy Hazle and Julie Young won their match. Everyone else lost except Natasha Bartels, the one nobody expected to win because of her standings. Natasha was the last match. For the two hours she played the game, she had a lot of pressure on her. If she lost, the girls lost state. If she won, the girls won state. In the last set they had a tie breaker, and Natasha beat the Bishop Kelley contender to win state. On their return home they had high spirits because they were the only sport in Claremore to ever make it to state and win the championship in Claremore High School history.

Because of their great accomplishment, Mayor Stan Thomas announced May sixteenth, 1988, official Claremore Lady Zebras Day.

At Regionals.

The 1988 girls track team held an impressive record. Coach Rushing said that his girls were some of the finest he ever had. "They practiced long and hard to get ready for regionals, and it paid off." Claremore turned out several Regional champions in girls track.

Renee Dicks won the shot put event at regionals with a 36 foot throw. She also won in the discus event with a 118 foot 2 inch throw. Rhonda Paris won in the long jump with a 16 foot 1½ inch jump. Jill Hilburn won in the 800 run.

Dedication To Steel

Weightlifting primarily was a class the football players took to keep in condition for next year's team. Though it was a conditioning class, it was also, a competitive sport.

Claremore held a Rogers County Weight Meet. Mainly, it was a preparation for regionals. Claremore finished first with individual winners Jerald Sutton in the heavy weight division and Brian Boyles in the 160-180 middle weight division.

Shane Clarke is determined to go one more set. Terry Draper uses muscles never used before.

At regionals, Shon Chester, Amos Tecumseh, Alan Burns, Tim Cutsinger, Chad Gargas, and Chris Chomosh qualified for state. Going in, Chad was the expected favorite. With a dead lift of 440 pounds, a bench press of 285 pounds, and a squat lift of 410 pounds; Chad Gargas placed 5th in state with a score of 1,135. Just five points below Chad, Chris Chomosh placed 6th in state.

Matt McPhetridge builds up his leg muscles on the hip sled.

Warming up with 225 pounds, Alan Burns prepares himself for the large weights.

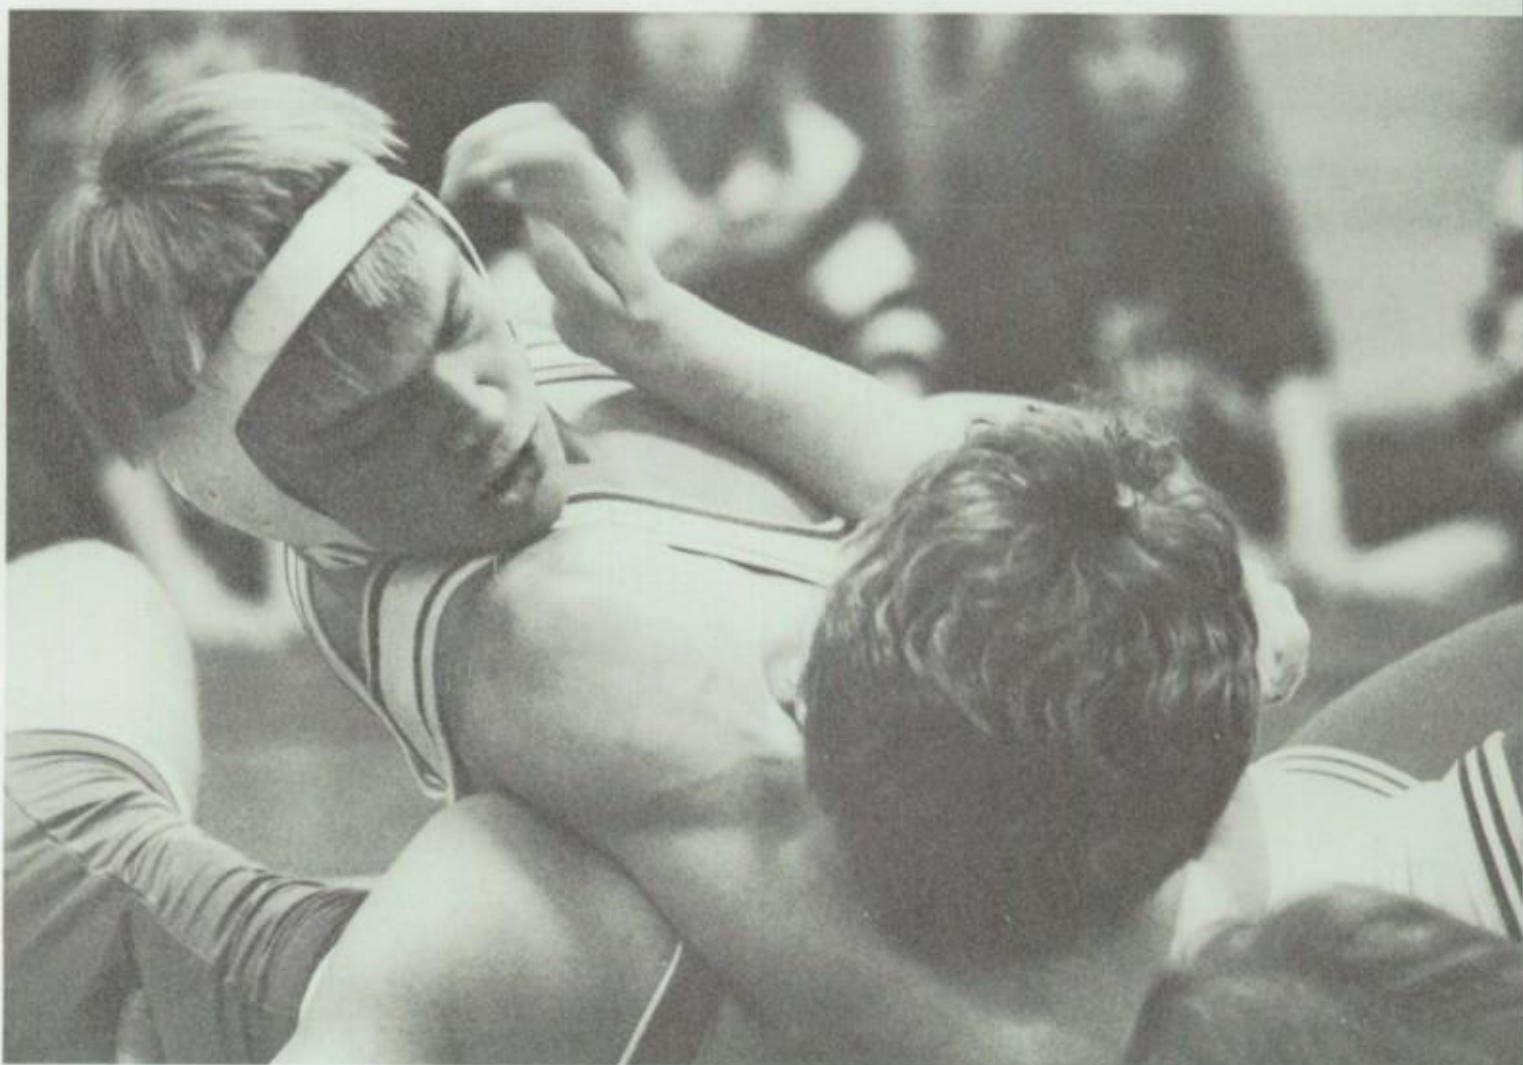

Shon Chester claims to warm up at 335 pounds. More realistic is that he maxes out at 135.

Rise And Fall Of Wrestling

A new coach started a new year. Last year's Coach Slatton left to coach Sperry. Coach Gibson came over from the Junior High to take over the coaching of the High School. His arrival was not met with overwhelming enthusiasm. The year was not as victorious as anticipated. The climax of the year was the Claremore-Sperry duel. Claremore worked hard to show Slatton that they were just as good; however, Sperry won by three points. Though the team did not do very good this year, the players have great expectations for next year. Hopes remain high.

Opponents don't have a chance with Shane Ray's death grip.

Bill Hinds forces the weaker adversary to eat mat.

Wrestlers reach some of the most awkward positions. Jeff Hendricks wrestles in the maze of human flesh.

ROYALTY

YESTERDAY WE WERE NORMAL

Being a part of the royalty is very important to the student body of our school. Each royalty contains different people picked by the players of that particular sport.

Many of the characteristics of a queen or the attendants are that all are very aggressive, show a great deal of school spirit, and attend all of the school's sporting events with great faith that we will win!

So the next time you are at a school game, look around for the group showing the most spirit because, more than likely, they have been a part of the Claremore High School Royalty.

The Junior attendant was Cathy Sumner with escort Devin Hassell. The Sophomore attendant was Jana Huckleby with escort Pete Baldrige.

All band royalty members were chosen at the beginning of the year, during marching season. Jeff Smith clearly earned the title of band King. Jeff has been in the All-

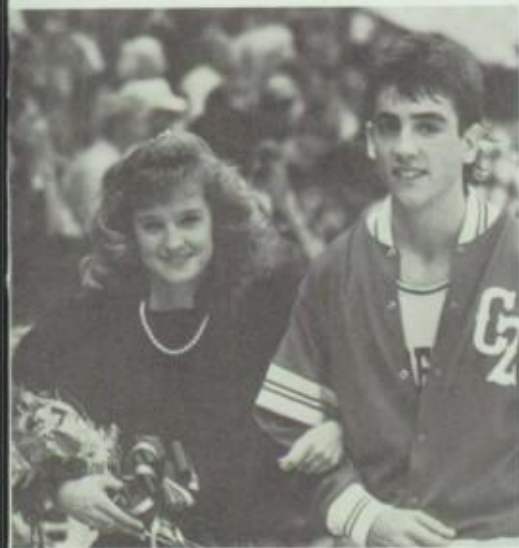

District band since eighth grade, he was also in the Oklahoma All Star Marching Band held at the University of Oklahoma. Jeff has been in the Top Jazz Band at the high school for his three years here in which he had fantastic solos at concerts and contest.

Karen Sumner was a drummajor in the band her junior and senior years. She has played tenor sax and flute in the top Jazz Band, and she also won the John Phillip Sousa Band award her junior year.

FFA, Future Farmers of America, is an organization that gives CHS students an opportunity to learn more about useful farming and the raising of animals. The

FFA sweetheart this year was sophomore Frances Murphy. Frances was voted upon by the entire FFA group. The president of FFA, Mike Dushay, crowned Frances. Frances was on the judging team when FFA went to shows. Mr. Binam was the sponsor of the group.

ROYALTY

Michele Vail, Queen

Deidre Buller, attendant

Angela Hyatt, attendant

Tatler Royalty was chosen by everyone on the Tatler staff. Michele Vail, senior queen, was the editor of the CHS monthly newspaper. Michele was also a member of SADD, Students Against Drunk Driving. Michele attended many summer writing workshops, as well as ones during the school year. She also won various writing awards.

Deidre Buller, junior attendant, also attended many writing workshops and received awards for her writing. Deidre was also a member of NHS, SADD, Math Club, and Spanish Club.

Angela Hyatt, sophomore attendant, was news editor of the Tatler newspaper. She also sings and plays the piano, and she likes to attend vocal compositions.

Football season plays a big part in our school, and so does picking the homecoming queen and the attendants.

During football homecoming, everyone participates in activities all through the week to let out some of their excitement before the game on Friday; then, we all head downtown to watch the parade and to see the football royalty. Later on that night, everyone can be found at the football game where they see the homecoming queen get crowned.

This year Cyndi Lane was crowned homecoming queen by Kenny Keenan. Senior attendants were Tammi Pinion escorted by Adam Johnson and Shelli DeMoss escorted by Chad Gargasz. Junior attendants were Jennifer King escorted by David Converse, and Teresa Slane escorted by Terry Draper. Sophomore attendant was Christen Newlon escorted by Brandon Edmonds. All are active in different school activities and are members of FCA.

John Grant. His name was not a familiar one in the halls. He was rather quiet and shy, except when he was on the soccer field. There he was a domineering force. He played on the Zebra soccer team from its creation in 1986-87 and continued through its second year, being named Best Defensive Player.

John's determination extended past the soccer field into academics as well. With a 3.18 G.P.A., John ranked 62nd out of 335 seniors. However, John's most fulfilling moment academically came when he was named a National Merit Finalist. This distinction gave him recognition at Tulsa University where he will begin studies in the fall on a full four year scholarship. While attending T.U. John will probably play soccer.

One of the biggest events of the school year besides senior skip day is the picking of the royalty. Every year the guys in each sport vote on who will become queen of that particular sport. This year the wrestlers voted Kristie Dick for that position. Along with a queen must come a king which turned out to be Grayson Collins.

The queen had five attendants and their escorts. Senior Kacee

All these girls and boys wait patiently for the big duel when the actual crowning will take place and the big kiss.

We've Had The Time Of Our Lives

This was not only our theme song for prom, but it stated the sentiments of many seniors. Prom was just the beginning of the end. It signaled the beginning of turning in books, taking finals, and finally — graduation.

This year's prom was the first prom to be held in the CHS gymnasium. The juniors raised enough money to sponsor a "Night In Camelot." The gym was equipped with a true-to-life castle and bridge, party masks, and a tree-like background. Although the sound system blew out twice, the night was not lost. The DJ got to stay five minutes after twelve.

Since the theme was castles and medieval times, it was only proper that there should be a king and queen, a prince and princess, and a court jester. The honors went to Mike Murray and Dawn Dorsey, Bob Jasper and Lisa Salmans, and Linda LeGate, respectively.

The night ended with wonderful memories for everyone with the last bit of the theme song lingering in the air" ... I've had the time of my life"

Jamye Buelke is quite mystified as to what they put in her virgin strawberry daquari. Mike Murray and Dawn Dorsey take the traditional king and queen dance. What a way to be treated Brian Dedeke! Are you always so kind-hearted Susan Baer?

Tina Riddles, "Well, yea, this is fun," and her date ex-Claremorian Jimmy Adkison, "O-K-A-Y, so what do we do now?"

Two manly guys that are enjoying the presence of their dates are Corey Oelklaus and William Whittington.

Don't look so sad, Susan Baer. All good things must come to an end.

Next To Finals

INTO THE FUTURE

Graduation 1988, the end of one era, the beginning of a new epoch. The 2:30 p.m. graduation time was gone. Student Council canvassed the senior class and discovered their preference overwhelming for an evening ceremony. Thus, the return of evening commencement. The seniors, directed by their faculty sponsors arrived early for the line up before the 7:30 procession. All 298 seniors, adorned in their red caps and gowns, marched around the stadium into their seats on the field.

As has been the tradition at Claremore High School for many years, the speakers were the valedictorian and salutatorian, Brandon Heiberger and Stephen Lyle. Presentation of the class was given by Mr. Cleve Kinneer with Mr. Harvey Johnson reading the names.

As darkness descended the ceremony and the stadium lights came up, the exercises were coming to a close. The seniors rose to the occasion, turned and faced the audience, and sang a moving rendition of "Friends" lead by class members Kellye Tull and Tricia Brassfield. With emotion filled voices the seniors began grouping together with close friends as their mortar boards went spiraling upward marking the end of the two hour ceremony.

Judd Wheeler lends Rachel Wheat his tie to dab her eyes as their friends Kevin Shannon, Teresa Ping, and Boyd West gather to say good-bye to their life in high school.

At an emotional close, the seniors grabbed their buddies as they flashed back through their memories.

Excitement was at an all time high as seniors Dan Rumsey, Shelly Royal, Robert Rothenbucher, Curt Roseman, and Pat Rosch line up to take their seats.

Out To Lunch

This year the seniors tried to establish an open campus. This meant that during lunch the seniors were able to leave school to go out to lunch. The seniors fought a long, difficult battle with Dr. Bacon, Mr. Kinnear, and the rest of the school board. The school board agreed, with conditions. Only seniors were allowed to leave. The seniors had to have a permission slip signed by their parents. The slip was to state that the school was not liable for any accidents which might occur off campus. The seniors who wanted to leave had to maintain a 2.0 grade average.

It wasn't always seniors that left for lunch. Sophomores and juniors tried to sneak out and add a little excitement to their lives.

Each year the student council puts forth a great deal of effort to make our school exciting and entertaining. Arm wrestling is just one key to their success. The student body signs up with a one dollar fee in one of four categories, 105-129, 130-146, 147-175, 175-heavy weight. Then during first or second lunch they begin their competition. This year there weren't any girls who signed up, because as Erika Attebury stated, "We wanted to spend all our time watching the guys." Above Mike Bump is pictured, of course this isn't the guy we all know today, but we would have recognized him in the fifth grade. He won the 130-146 category. Chubba Boyles won the 105-129, Slade Story won the 147-175, and Jeff Brooks won the 175-heavy weight category. Congratulations to all you guys, it took alot to win this.

Academic Bowl Double Jeopardy

In the dark gloomy recesses of Claremore High lurked a few of Miss Batty's gifted and talented students. These students spent eight weeks out of every school year competing against seven other schools every Monday.

They competed in four subjects: English, math, social studies, and science. If they were lucky, they got asked a current event question for extra credit. These people formed a varsity and a junior varsity team.

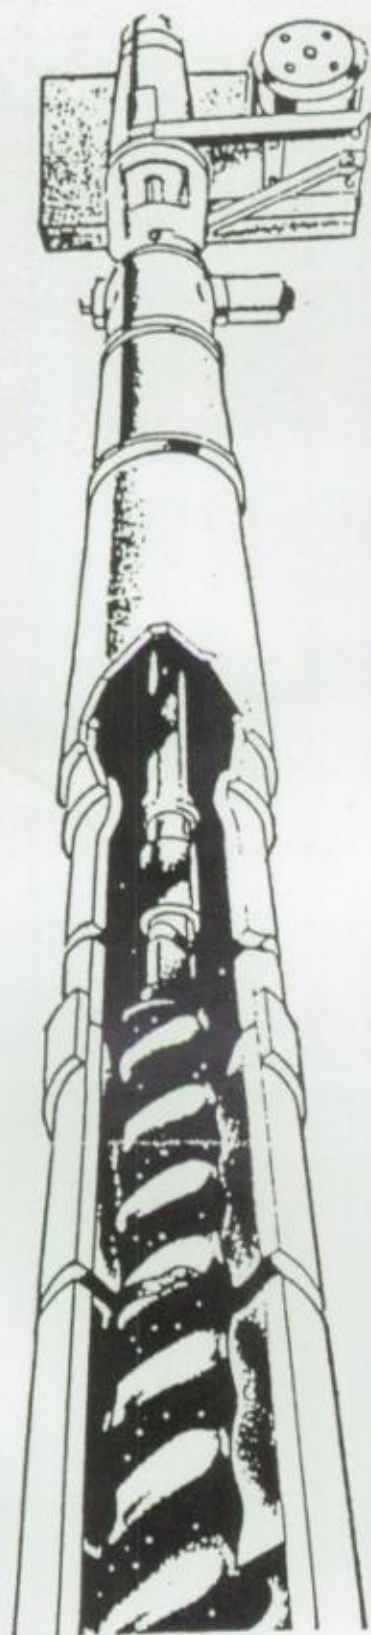

Varsity members were Back Row: Timmy Chadha, Layle Baker, and Eric Randall. Front Row: Jennifer McDaniel, Patricia Pabst, and Andrea Rizer.

A Still!?

Mrs. Semkoff's General Chemistry classes constructed a still. The actual assembly of the still was done by her 3rd period class. The still was turned on in the morning, and throughout the course of the day it produced liquids such as kerosene and alcohol. Although the still was designed for manufacturing alcohol it was not fit for human consumption.

Blood

"Are we having fun yet?" Bill Harper wanted to know. "HA HA, I could have sworn you said we weren't getting paid for this," replied Mike Murray.

The National Honor Society promoted their annual "Blood Drive" with the Red Cross April 18, 1988. They received 99 pints of blood as reported by Shelia Crutchfield. Students had to go through a process of giving such information as: name, address, age, blood pressure, body weight and temperature, and had to have a test to see if they had iron poor blood. Then they were stuck with a two inch long needle and had a pint of blood sucked from their arms. The whole procedure took about 30-45 minutes per individual. Mr. Kinnear reported that the Blood Drive was a complete success and added that he was proud to represent Claremore High School.

Barbara Keenze Now & Then

Teacher, pommerette sponsor, friend or foe. Pick a category Mrs. Barbara Keenze fits them all. She presently has three children; two girls, Muriel and Janet and a boy John, a husband Tom, and two cats. Rumors of her moving to New Jersey were true except that they never flip flopped one way or the other. She never made a final decision. She taught History, Sociology and Psychology. As a pommerette sponsor she helped the girls make up their routines, organized fund raisers for the girls to do and signed all legal documents. As for a friend, it may take you a while to get close to her, but once you do you will have a friend for life and you will never want to trade that friendship in on anything. You never want to get on her bad side though, because just as she can be a good friend, she can also make you shrink in size with one look of her eyes.

Is This A Parking Lot Or What!

Many Claremore High School students have experienced the difficulty of trying to find a parking space in our school. Many of us spend useless time trying to find one in front then they go to the back to find nothing more than cars parked anywhere they could fit.

Alan Burns and Doug Lowrey realized that driving through the mud was the easiest way to get out, while Brad Swan just gave up and parked his truck to his convenience.

Give It Up You'll Never Make It Out!

This year Seniors got to go out for lunch, but not Sophomores and Juniors. Those who dared to try to get by Mr. Lundy definitely didn't enjoy their lunch because when they returned they took a visit to Mr. Johnson's office and ended up with a few days of In-House Suspension!

By the end of the year most kids didn't even try to get out after realizing Mr. Lundy would be out there in rain, sleet, or snow!

It's A Girl

On February 11, 1988, Mrs. Vice welcomed her new baby girl named Jessica Ann. She was born at Hillcrest, Tulsa, Ok., at 9:00 a.m., she weighed 7 lbs. 11½ oz. and was 21 inches long. Mrs. Vice is an Algebra and Consumers Math teacher and has taught here for 4 years.

When asking Mrs. Vice what she thought of her new baby, she said, "It's the best baby in the world."

Our Love

Our love is strong; our love is deep,
We've built it high; we've built it steep.
We've had our ups and downs,
We've been through thick and thin.
And this is how I know,
Our love will surely win.
We have been together, for almost three years.
We have shared laughter, And we have shared tears.
A lot of the time; I have been wrong,
But you've always been there,
Standing nice and strong.

Next To Today

Into Tomorrow

A year with few changes filled with melodramatic moments. Some things never change; football games, pep assemblies, classes. However, there were times when these ordinary events came alive. In football, for instance, we went to the semifinals in state. We had a great year in track, and tennis became the first ever State Champion in the history of Claremore High School. We had a National Merit Finalist, the structure team of OM won first place in state and went to the national contest in Maryland to compete and yes, even the yearbook won honors as Best All Around yearbook at NSU.

Fads came and went; boys wore earrings and short hair, girls permed their hair and wore skirts of every imaginable length. Old couples split, new ones joined. Seniors got to leave campus for lunch, music mellowed enough to understand the words. School spirit started soaring as a new emphasis on pride and patriotism clutched the school.

The year had its up and downs, but each year the students of Claremore High are taught to face the challenges of the world with wisdom. The Aids crisis, the threat of nuclear war, the conflicts in the Middle East, are all problems to be faced by the leaders of tomorrow. To see life not as a series of problems but as a collection of opportunities, to learn from and gain strength, today's students or tomorrow's leaders can rise to the occasion and conquer the world and all it holds.

Cappy Powell momentarily looks back as another chapter in her life comes to a close.
